FARMERS TO BE GIVEN TIME FOR BORER DRIVE

State Director of Agriculture Truax Promises Leniency in Work Here

DRIVE TO CONTINUE

Those Openly Opposed to Movement Not To Be Considered, Claim

Fears that trouble might develop in connection with the corn borer clean-up campaign in Marion County have been almost entirely eliminated as the result of the conference held at Columbus yesterday by Director of Agriculture Truax and a delegation of nine Marion County citizens.

Plans for government clean-up work in this county, as outlined by Truax, indicate that utmost fairness and leniency will be shown toward farmers who have made an effort to comply with orders and that every effort will be made by authorities to avoid methods which will damage crops already planted or seriously interfere with future planting operations.

Work Must Proceed

The clean-up program must proceed with as much effectiveness as possible, the Marion County delegation was informed, but there is no intention on the part of authorities to employ drastic measures with farmers who have shown a tendency to co-operate in carrying out the program outlined by the state and federal governments.

Farmers who are openly opposed to the corn borer campaign as a whole and who have deliberately and persistently refused to make any effort toward cleaning up their premises cannot and will not be shown any leniency.

This, according to Fred B. Guthery, local attorney who acted as one of the spokesmen for the delegation, is the sum and substance of the program as explained by Truax.

"I feel certain that the situation will be satisfactorily handled if farmers in Marion County continue to show a spirit of friendliness and co-operation," Mr. Guthery said.

Work Held Up

Clean-up work by government crews on a number of farms in the county was scheduled for today but will be held of temporarily until further instructions are received from corn borer campaign headquarters in Toledo. It was state officially today that these instructions, based upon the questions

DROPS THEORY THAT BOY WAS VICTIM OF MURDER

Ecorse Police Chief Says Developments Point to Death from Fall

In an effort to establish the cause of death of Charles Mougey, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Mougey, 625 Oak-st, whose lifeless body was found along the right-of-way of the Michigan Central railroad in Ecorse, suburb of Detroit, early Sunday, an inquest is to be held at Ecorse tonight before Judge William Coogel.

Police Chief Herbert Ormsby, Ecorse, after further investigation of circumstances surrounding the youth's death has discontinued the theory that the youth was murdered for his money. All developments so far, he stated, indicate that the boy fell from a fast moving train.

Funeral services for the boy were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home in charge of Rev. J. W. Mougey, Columbus, the lad's great uncle. Burial was in Marion Cemetery.

Calles' Daughter U. S. Citizen

Tucson, Ariz., May 18—The daughter of the president of Mexico was an American citizen today following the marriage of Senorita Ernestina Calles to Thomas A. Robinson of New York.

Robinson and his bride were honeymooning today, driving along the border in an official automobile of the Mexican government. They were married yesterday in a simple service at Nogales.

Deaths from Heart Disease Continually Increasing Physicians Are Advised

Result of Injury to Organ by Infection Occurring Some Years Previously; Marked Decrease in Fatalities from Infectious Diseases, Doctor Declares

Washington, May 18—The latest discoveries of medical science were broadcast by scientists, surgeons and physicians today to the 4,000 delegates attending the American Medical Association's 78th annual convention to be used in safe-guarding the health of 120,000,000 Americans.

The greatest progress in the last year apparently was recorded in the field of surgery. The feats of plastic surgeons who replaced noses, ears, whole faces amazed even experienced physicians who attended the lectures.

Heart Fatalities

The most significant development of the year to the ordinary citizen, however, was the discovery that deaths from heart disease are continually increasing.

Mortality statistics clearly indicate that the number of deaths from heart disease is distinctly on the increase, said Dr. Henry Alberts of Des Moines.

Heart disease is in large part the result of injury to that organ by an infection, which occurred some years previously. There is at present a greater proportion of our population which has been maimed by scarlet fever and probably by many other diseases, including rheumatic fever, than there were 10 or 20 years ago.

Dr. Alberts credited the increase in heart victims partly to the fact that there has been a rather marked decrease in the number of deaths from infectious diseases. With more people living to middle and old age, he explained, there are more potential victims of heart disease.

Other revelations at the scientic sessions included announcements that ulcers are cureable, that the removal of tonsils in children protects them from scarlet fever, rehumatics and heart trouble, that expectant mothers will have an easier time if they work more and eat less than usual. That bad coughs are frequently mistaken even by physicians for tuberculosis, and that climatic conditions can no longer be considered a factor in causing gangrene as a complication of diabetes. The prevalence of gangrene among poor people, said Dr. I. I. Lemann of Tulane university is due to poverty and ignorance rather than to climate.

MURDER TRIAL ENDS WITH YOUTH'S RELEASE

State Fails To Build Case Against Boy, Justice Scudder Decides

New York, May 18—Walter Goldberg, 17-year-old school boy charged with the shooting of his 16-year-old school girl sweetheart, Anna Harris, in the dining room of her home in Brooklyn, March 15, was freed today by order of Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder before the case went to the jury. Goldberg had been on trial for murder for the last three days.

Goldberg had maintained throughout the trial that the girl had shot herself while engaged with him in playful struggle for the possession of a revolver which they were examining.

The order for Goldberg's release created a sensational scene in the courtroom. The youthful defendant rushed over to his mother, Mrs. Florence Goldberg, and threw his arms about her. Then he wept on her shoulder.

Justice Scudder's decision came before the attorneys for both sides had begun their summations and immediately after they had concluded their rebuttal.

Scores of high school students who knew Goldberg and had been "cutting" classes to attend his trial staged a wild demonstration in the courtroom when the youth was granted his freedom.

Justice Scudder in ordering the release of Goldberg, held that the prosecution had failed to make out a case against him.

CLEMENCY IS GRANTED TWO OHIO PRISONERS

Columbus, May 18—Gov. Vic Donahey today granted executive clemency, providing for immediate release of Jerome Russell, 26, Middletown, from Ohio Penitentiary, and for Hamilton of John Stephens, also a young man, of Darke County, from the state reformatory at Mansfield on June 8, next.

Both prisoners, convicted of robbery, are to report to prison officials for one year as on parole.

FAMOUS COMEDIAN DIES ABOARD SHIP AT SEA

Sam Bernard Succumbs to Sudden Attack of Apoplexy, Family Is Advised

New York, May 18—Sam Bernard, famous comedian, died at sea from a sudden attack of apoplexy last night, according to word received by his family and friends today. He was 64 years old.

Bernard was sailing for Europe for a pleasure trip after finishing an engagement with "I Told You." Lester Allen, star in "La Maire's Affairs," was accompanying Bernard and cabled word of his death.

Bernard sailed on the North German Lloyd liner Columbus a few days ago, bound for Carlsbad. A message from the captain of the ship also confirmed the comedians death.

Bernard is survived by a wife and son residing in New York. He was born in Birmingham, Eng., and came to America when he was three or four years old.

ITALY ASKED TO SEND OBSERVERS TO GENEVA

Washington, May 18—A note from Italy, requesting that she be permitted to send several naval experts as observers to the Geneva naval conference, was received by the state department last night.

The note contained no definite outline of how fully Italy may participate in the conference, if at all.

ADMIRAL SIMS SAYS SUB BEST NAVAL WEAPON

Fleet of Under Water Vessels Could Split Any Attacking Force

WON'T BE OUTLAWED

U. S. Navy Commander During War Praises Present American Policy

Newport, R. I. May 18—The submarine is the best naval weapon devised for the protection of the United States in the event of another war.

This statement was made today by Admiral William S. Sims in an exclusive interview in his home in Newport. As he talked, Narragansett Bay, a stone's throw from his home, was alive with ships preparing to resist the attempt of any enemy armada to land troops on the New England Coast as part of the annual army-navy war manuvers to test the defensive strength of the north Atlantic coastline.

Admiral Sims was commander-in-chief of the United States Naval forces operating in European waters during the war and is regarded as an authority on naval affairs.

Distance in Favor

The most impregnable defense the United States has against attack by any foreign power is distance, said Admiral Sims. The enemy would have to come 3,000 miles to attack us and when it got within reach it would have no naval base to fall back upon—no place where ships could put in to be re-fueled and re-conditioned.

The submarine has clipped the wings of sea power and has made it a difficult matter for any foreign power to traverse such a great distance as entirely across the Atlantic and attack our shores.

A fleet of submarines could split such an attacking fleet and, with the aid of airplanes, virtually insure the safety of our shores from attack.

The submarine and aircraft are our two principal defensive weapons. Battleships are of very secondary import-

BELLANCA FLIGHT HEADS CALL PEACE CONFERENCE

Navigator Bertraud and C. A. Levine Seek Settlement of Controversy

Mineola, N. Y., May 18—In an effort to avoid the controversial "air pocket" which looms in front of the Bellanca trans-atlantic flight, a hurried peace conference was called today between Charles A. Levine, head of the Columbia Aircraft Corp., owner of the Columbia plane, and Lloyd Bertaud, its navigator.

The dissension in the Bellanca camp originated in a dispute over provisions for Mrs. Bertaud's insurance in the event disaster should befall her husband during his proposed New York-to-Paris flight with Clarence Chamberlin.

The latest development came in the midst of persistent reports that Levine was seeking another navigator to supplant Bertaud, the name of Lieut. Walter E. Hinton, pilot of the first plane to cross the Atlantic, being frequently mentioned.

Meanwhile, the other two contestants in the New York-to-Paris air race continued tuning their machines impatiently awaiting the cessation of bad weather.

Commander Richard E. Byrd planned to make his final test of the Fokker monoplane, America, this afternoon. Capt. Charles Lindbergh, the "solitary flier," appeared ready to hop off at the first sign of encouragement from the weather bureau.

DORAN CANDIDATE

Prohibition Commissioner Appointment Situation Called Complicated

Washington, May 18—Another candidate was added to the list of aspirants for prohibition commissioner today when it was learned that Dr. J. M. Doran, chief chemist of the dry bureau, is under consideration.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon termed the situation in relation to the appointment as complicated.

Seymour Lowman, former lieutenant governor of New York, is considered for assistant secretary of the treasury should Gen. L. C. Andrews resign, it was reported.

RUTH SNYDER AND GRAY GIVEN PRISON NUMBERS

Ossining, N. Y., May 18—Convicts 70,281 and 70,282, otherwise Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, entered doors today into the maximum life of the Sing Sing death house.

Both passed comfortably last night and have recovered from the nervous excitement of the transfer from the Queens County Jail.

A monopoly on good looks seems to be held by the family of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Alexander, of Charlotte, N. C. Recently Alice, 12, was chosen the prettiest child in the junior high school there and her brother, Frank, 15, has been chosen the handsomest boy in the same school. A brother, Thomas, 17, received that honor last year. Neighbors say if beauty contests were held in the second grade, Syd, 7, would carry off the title.

CANTON REPOSITORY IS BOUGHT BY BRUSH-MOORE

Afternoon Paper Purchased from George B. Frease; Once Controlled by McKinley

Canton, May 18—The Canton Repository one of the oldest newspapers in Ohio, was sold today to the Brush-Moore group of newspapers, under the management of Louis H. Brush, of Salem, Ohio, and Roy D. Moore, Marion. This announcement was made today by George B. Frease who has been associated with The Repository for more than 40 years and who has been publisher and principal owner for more than 20 years.

The Brush-Moore papers now include, in addition to The Repository, The Marion Star, formerly owned by the late President Harding; The East Liverpool Review Tribune, The Salem News, and the Steubenville Herald Star. Mr. Brush is president of the Brush-Moore Co., William H. Vodrey, East Liverpool, is secretary and treasurer. Mr. Moore, general manager of the allied papers, will make his home in Canton.

Romantic Background

Acquisition of the Canton Repository gives this group of publications an unusually romantic and historic background. Two of the papers, The Repository and The Steubenville Herald-Star, have been in business continuously for more than a century. Three of them have had presidential family connections. William McKinley incorporated the Repository Printing Co. in 1885 and was a frequent editorial contributor. It was his expressed wish that at the expiration of his presidential term he might return to Canton and express his views on national questions through the columns of the Repository.

Likewise the late President Harding had made a definite contract with Brush and Moore, to become a contributing editor of The Marion Star after his presidential term.

James Wilson, grandfather of Woodrow Wilson, owned and edited the Steubenville Herald for 24 years, and the late Woodrow Wilson's family removed to Virginia a comparatively short time before the birth of America's war president.

The Brush-Moore papers were among the very first to offer $1,000 for the apprehension of the murderers of Don Mellett, for whose murder the third conviction was announced last night.

SAYS BILL TO PASS

Representative Snell Declares Boulder Dam Legislation Necessary

Washington, May 18—A prediction that the Boulder Dam Bill will be passed at the next session of congress was made today by Representative Snell, Republican of New York, chairman of the powerful rule committee, after a conference with President Coolidge at the White House.

Snell said the pacific house sought by the present Mississippi flood probably would interfere congress of the necessity of passing the Boulder Dam measure and thus forestalling a possible shutter situation in the Colorado River region.

RECOVER 26 BODIES FROM BLAST RUINS

Farmer Whose Home and Barns Also Were Destroyed After School Explosion Is Sought by Authorities at Bath, Near Lansing

KINDERGARTEN WING OF BUILDING WRECKED

Rescuers Search for More Bodies; Police from Many Michigan Cities Rush to Scene of Tragedy; Curious Throng Village

BATH, Mich., May 18—Fifty to 75 persons are believed to have been killed here today in the consolidated school when dynamite, supposedly planted by a maniac, wrecked the kindergarten wing of the building. Twenty-six bodies have been recovered and rescuers are searching the ruins for more.

The injured number 50 to 100.

A farmer whose home and barns were destroyed a few minutes after the school blast is sought.

One report was that the maniac was killed in the basement of the school by a premature explosion.

State police, under Lieut. Lawrence Lyon, started working on the theory that the explosion was the result of a political feud.

The person responsible for the disaster is believed to have perished in the school building when the dynamite charge exploded prematurely. Another report said that he had been seen driving away shortly before the series of explosions.

Among the dead is Supt. E. E. Huyck. He had just climbed into his automobile when a dynamite blast under his car lifted him through the roof and blew him to bits. Huyck had opened the school and was leaving to visit another school.

There were at least 150 persons, most of them pupils, in the school house when the explosion occurred. It is believed that in addition to the 26 bodies brought from the ruins many more will be found.

Rushed to Lansing

As fast as the injured were taken from the building they were rushed to Lansing in automobiles.

Doctors, nurses and ambulances speeded to the scene from nearby towns following the explosion.

A farmer at whose home another dynamite blast exploded about the same time is being sought by authorities.

No reason for enmity on the part of the suspect has been learned. Several sticks of dynamite were found in the street after the blasts.

The explosion occurred shortly after school had opened for the day.

The entire countryside heard the blasts. One destroyed Superintendent Huyck, another blew the school apart, and a few minutes later the farmer-suspect's home and barns blew up.

The town was thrown into a panic by the explosions. The residents did not know where another blast might be expected.

Police Are Rushed

Within a few minutes, however, rescue work was under way.

All telephone wires were commandeered and Lansing was asked to send all possible relief.

As word of the disaster spread, police from Lansing, St. Johns, the county seat of Clinton County in which Bath is situated, and other nearby towns raced to the scene.

The countryside was jammed with automobiles which carried the curious here.

Bath is a town of 325 persons on the Michigan Central Railroad.

The Michigan Central's telegraph operator left his key after notifying his superiors of the explosions and stated he was going to learn the fate of his four children in the school.

The school is a three-story brick structure. The wing that was destroyed was almost entirely filled with kindergarten pupils.

PLANES, BOATS SEEK WRECKAGE ON FOGGY SEA

Bellepline's Officers and Crew Report Seeing Broken Wing on May 6

Boston, May 18—Penetrating the haze that clung over the Atlantic today, a small fleet of United States coast guard patrol boats and other craft engaged in an intensive search for the battered flotsam sighted 100 miles out on May 16, by an incoming freight steamship and thought possibly to be the wreckage of the missing White Bird, the Paris-to-New York biplane of Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli.

At the same time airplanes were droning in Boston, Gloucester and Provincetown preparatory to the start seaward to join in the hunt for the wreckage of what captain and crew of the shipping board steamship Bellepline thought was the broken wing of the missing French trans-atlantic plane.

Four of the larger coastguard patrol boats on regular rum patrol off the coast were rushed to the area where a jagged and splintered object was observed floating in the sea. Two other craft were diverted from their course. At dawn patrol boats 155 and 156, under full draught steamed out of Gloucester.

The statement of the captain and officers of the Bellepline was coupled with a statement given to Commander Carl C. Von Paulsen of the Gloucester coastguard station by an ex-aviator, whose name is being withheld. This man said that he sighted a plane off Cape Sable at 7 a. m. May 9. The wings, he said, were laden with heavy sleet and snow. The plane's course was south by west and would have brought it in the area where the wreckage was seen by the officers of the Bellepline.

MESSAGE-BEARING WINE BOTTLE FOUND

Falmouth, England, May 18—A French wine bottle, containing what purports to be a message from Captain Nungesser, has been picked up by a fisherman off the seaport village of Port Houstock.

The message which bears the signature "Nungesser" states that the French airmen were forced to descend 75 miles off Ireland due to engine trouble. The message has been handed over to the police. Its authenticity is not yet established.

Lord Byng "Invited Out" for Not Wearing Gala Attire

London, May 18—When King George invites you to dine, you dress according to the royal instructions, or you don't dine, Lord Byng, former commander of the British armies in France, knows that today.

King George gave a banquet to President Doumergue of France and the invitations gave notice of formal attire. For military men this meant formal evening uniforms of scarlet and gold.

Lord Byng's military uniforms were miles away from London, as he went to the banquet in civilian formal dress wearing decorations. An embarrassed court official was detailed to tell him that it would be impossible for him to remain as he was improperly dressed.

ERIE RAILROAD PLANS THREE SPECIAL TRIPS

Excursions to New York Set for July 7, August 4 and Aug. 25

Three excursions to New York and return will be operated on the Erie Railroad through Marion during the summer months, it was announced here today. The dates of the excursions are July 7, Aug. 4, and Aug. 25.

The return limit of the excursion is 16 days. The tickets will be honored either in a day coach or Pullman. Special reduced rates are offered.

Many Marion persons are expected to take advantage of the excursions this year. They were exceedingly popular along the Erie last summer and a large number of local persons were among those to enjoy the Eastern trip.

A number of inquiries have been made at the local ticket office already and all advance information possible is being given.

Other railroads operating through Marion have not yet announced any definite excursion programs.

Visits in Marion

Specially-Built Fisher Body — Strikingly Beautiful Duco Colors—Elegantly Appointed —The Aristocrat of All Chevrolets

Again Chevrolet revolutionizes every previous conception of quality and elegance in a low-priced automobile by presenting the Imperial Landau—a new model whose distinction and smartness entitle it to comparison with the costliest custom-built cars.

Its specially-built Fisher body reveals all the masterly craftsmanship for which the Fisher name is famous. The finish is lustrous black Duco, with embellishments of brilliant chinese red.

With oblong windows—with nickeled windshield rim and landau bows—with vaulted roof, and with top and rear quarter in mouse gray textile leather, this aristocrat of all Chevrolets is one of the most strikingly beautiful cars to be seen on the streets and highways.

And, of course, it has all the power, speed and smoothness—all the flashing acceleration, finger-tip steering and unfailing dependability that have brought to Chevrolet such world-wide fame.

This beautiful car is now on display in our showroom. Come and see it. You will be delighted to learn that a car so low in price provides such commanding individuality and style!

Britain's drink bill last year was £301,300,000 — about $1,500,000,000 — against £315,000,000 the year before. It's a bit hard to think of a better way in which the Britons could save $70,000,000.

The United States supreme court has upheld the California syndicalism law, holding that it doesn't violate free speech or due process of law, and turned down the appeal of Miss Charlotte Whitney, who has been championing the cause of the California branch of the Communist Labor party and preaching its doctrine of all forms of violence against property. Here's a case where we have great appreciation of the equality-of-the-sexes idea.

Two thousand barbers in the Bronx, New York, have gone on strike and we just can't help feeling sorry for the bobbed-hair Bronx girls when we think what the backs of their necks are going to look like in the course of two or three weeks.

We see that a United States army captain has set a new balloon altitude record of 42,270 feet, but even that isn't in it with the distance some of the distinguished Republican patriots are up in the atmosphere over Mr. Coolidge's refusal to declare his position for 1928. And you can't blame 'em much. How can they justify themselves for listening to the call of the office till they know whether it will do any good to hear it?

His Utterance Has Appeal.

Perhaps of all the visitors from across the Atlantic who have come to us in recent months, if not in recent years, Ramsay MacDonald possesses the broadest mentality, the finest perception, the best analytical powers. Hence it is that we must give weight to any manifestly honest and sincere expression made by him.

Just before taking passage on the Berengaria to sail for home, Tuesday, the former British premier had this to say concerning prohibition and the attitude of European visitors who had preceded him to our shores since the Volstead law went into operation:

"So many of our smart people have been over here and sneered at the prohibition law, but when I go back I am going to take the other side. It is a great effort to keep people decent and to enable men to find it easier to do their duty by their families and to spend their money on necessities."

The foregoing utterance appeals to us for a number of reasons. One is, as held out by the former premier, the novelty of such an utterance coming from an European, especially from a Briton. Another is the truths it contains. Still another is that if any one on the face of the earth should know whereof he speaks on the evils of intemperance it should be one who has had the opportunity such as Ramsay MacDonald has had to study the liquor evil at home. If there is a land which more than another is generally marked by wrecks of drunkenness, with the possible exception of localities in Scotland, it is England, whose liquor bill last year reached the staggering total of $1,500,000,000.

No wonder that this statesman who has seen the poverty, and suffering, and wretchedness caused by drink in his home land—which exceeds that suffered by any of the great European powers, has a good word to say for our endeavor to accomplish prohibition—as he puts it: "a great, praiseworthy effort to keep people decent."

Taxing Thrift.

Protests have begun to pour in against the eleventh-hour action of the Ohio legislators which voted to increase the tax on life insurance premiums paid to companies outside of Ohio from two and one half to three per cent. These protests against what is regarded as an unsound tax will be considered by Governor Donahey, who has until the first of next week to veto or approve the measure.

At a public hearing promised by Donahey, the governor will be informed that Ohio already taxes insurance premiums of foreign companies higher than most of the other states, and that the increase will put Ohio in a class by itself. The least Governor Donahey can do is to listen to arguments against the increased tax, for those affected had no opportunity to present their case before the legislature. The bill was rushed through both branches of the assembly without consideration of its fairness; there were no public hearings, no consideration of any kind.

Had the legislators given more thought to the effects of the bill they might have discovered that any tax on insurance premiums is a tax on thrift. Men are the principal buyers of insurance, and they buy it to protect their families in case of emergency, or to build modern homes, which likewise are designed to protect their families. No matter how the law reads or how large or small the increase in the tax, the policyholders and not the companies will pay the tax. Another bad feature is that many other states have retaliatory insurance regulations which will come into play against every Ohio company the moment this new Ohio law takes effect.

Life insurance purchased with discretion is recognized as a stabilizing social influence. It relieves society of much of the burden of caring for indigent age. Thus we find the Ohio legislature laying an unnecessary burden on man's effort to better his economic condition. It proposes an increase in taxes not because an analysis of the facts justifies it, but simply because Ohio needs the money. It is a penalty on thrift which should be removed through the governor's veto power.

A cable says an American woman can lease a house for the eight-week London season and strive to make a place for herself socially for $75,000 this year, "which is fully $25,000 less than it would have cost immediately following the war." If they're going to cheapen the thing like that, we've about made up our mind to tell our better-half she may just as well stay at home.

Sir Thomas Lipton says he is up in Chicago because he had heard that there is a wax model in a museum up there of an American who never owned a car, and he wanted to see it. The situation must be a lot worse than we imagined if they are already perpetuating memory of us true aristocrats of the land in wax for museum purposes.

The Religious Education association, assembled in convention in Chicago, demands wider religious training in the schools. We do not know the worth of the Religious Education association, but there's little question but what the schools could stand a little more religion for what appears to be ailing a lot of them.

Frank O. Lowden has been "resoluted" by farm leaders of the state of Indiana, to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency as "the outstanding statesman in America with a thorough and instinctive knowledge of the farm problem." Even Frank will probably admit that the thing would be somewhat more impressive were not the "farm leaders" usually the fellows who draw salaries for the interest they take in matters agricultural.

Activities in College Athletics.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In the "Exonian," the student newspaper of the Phillips Exeter academy, I read an interesting editorial. It took the form of a lamentation that there is not the same authoritative demand for constant out-of-door exercise in good weather as is demanded when the gymnasium opens for class work.

I congratulate the editor. Not only does he plead his case well, but as I see it, he occupies an unassailable position from the health standpoint. I quote:

"——— The point has been brought up that the fellows should be allowed to do what they please in the way of athletics, but no such broadminded viewpoint is take a little later, however, when gymnasium work becomes absolutely compulsory. It seems that it would be far more beneficial to have real exercise compulsory now in the open air than later in the gymnasium!"

There can be no doubt that every growing boy should spend a part of each day in the open air. His developing muscles demand exercise, real exercise, hard exercise. It is not enough simply to go out for a stroll. There should be consistent, sweat-producing, faithful, outdoor exercise every day of the year unless weather conditions prevent.

What sort of weather need prevent out-of-door activity? Only a blizzard or a driving storm is quite enough to keep the young folks in the house, that is, provided . . .

Young men and women hate rubbers. The boys think it is babyish to wear them, and the girls think rubbers make their feet ugly. If I had my way I'd make a law demanding that the feet be kept dry and warm.

There is no particular harm in getting the feet wet, but there is real honest-to-goodness harm in going about your daily tasks with wet feet. You should have an extra pair of shoes wherever your day's work takes you, unless you have the good sense to own and wear rubbers or galoshes.

The manufacturers are doing their part to supply good looking rubbers. They have gone so far as to make them in any color. A girl can match her dress, her stockings, her slicker, or her hair.

College boys and girls wear slickers these days. That's good. They keep the garments dry.

But anyhow, get out-of-doors all you can and in decent weather, winter and summer, make it a rule to spend a definite time in outside exercise.

The Fatal Flaw.

[Detroit News.]

The German business concern which files suits in Berlin charging "systematic double-crossing by Russian soviet trade authorities," puts its finger on the fundamental fatal flaw in the bolshevist system of political economy. The Moscow government is outside the pale of decent international society, not because of its origin and past sins, but because it is studiously dishonest as a matter of deliberate, settled policy. It sneers at and despises truthfulness and square-dealing which it considers puerile. It openly boasts that it prefers and places dependence on lies and trickery. There is no possibility of coming to either a political or economical understanding with such a regime because all international arrangements necessarily are based largely on a basis of good faith.

Deliver me from blood guiltiness, O God, Thou God of my salvation: and my tongue shall sing aloud of Thy righteousness.—Psalm 51:14.

Editorial Comment.

THE WAITING PLAGUE.

Among the dangers to be apprehended as one of the results of the flood visitation is an outbreak of smallpox—the sinister plague which so often walks in the path carved by great physical disaster.

There need be no fear of an epidemic of smallpox in this day if proper attention and treatment promptly are given in cases where the disease manifests itself, but it is a strange fact that even in this day, and despite the years of education and experience which have demonstrated the practical value of vaccination, there remain multitudes of people opposed to the preventive treatment which alone can assure practical immunity from the ravages of this loathsome disease.

According to the report of the American Association for Medical Progress for 1922 the United States reported more cases of this dreaded disease than any other country in the world outside of Asia!

This is an astonishing and alarming state of affairs. Vaccination will prevent virulent development of the disease—in most cases it results only in mild illness; in many, in no illness at all. The practice has back of it the massed approval of medical science.

England and Wales also, it is said, occupy a position in this respect but little better than the United States, and all this in face of the fact that in localities where sentiment against vaccination is strongest the disease continues to cause terrible ravages.

It is to be hoped that the authorities will take efficient charge of the situation in the flood areas and so not only protect victims and exposed persons in those sections, but the public generally, for diseases of this character have the habit of ignoring distance and circumstance.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

NO CANALS.

If it does no one harm we would like to believe there are canals in Mars. The idea is appealing. Think of the great artificial watercourses constructed by a race of Titans! It makes Mars the fairest of all fields for the rambling of the human imagination.

But we are not permitted to ramble. Since Schiaparelli first promulgated the canal theory dozens of careful astronomers have ridiculed it, till it is now difficult to find any one pretending to scientific acumen who will say a word for the canals. We have lost hope that any keen mundane observer will ever descry the Martian canal boats.

Three years ago Mars was very near the earth and Professor Trumpler and Dr. Wright of the Lick observatory made a mass of Martian observations. It has required three years to study the observations and to digest the findings of the most extensive and intensive Martian investigation ever conducted. Now the Lick men say that there is absolutely no possibility that the Martian markings are canals. They are, instead, lines of vegetation marking low valleys or volcanic cracks. There is nothing new in this except its seeming finality.

There may be men on Mars competent to dig vast canals, but no men on Mars have as yet ever dug canals big enough to be visible from the earth. There is a good thick atmosphere about Mars, and life as we know it on the earth may not be impossible. But this is all very thin speculation. The fact, and enough to those who like to let their fancies run away with them, is that nothing we have ever seen on Mars gives even a suggestion that the planet is inhabited.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE GOSPEL OF PAINT.

Paint manufacturers throughout the country are running at full capacity production, according to dispatches from Cleveland, where several of the largest firms are located. Sales of the largest house have shown an increase each week for several months, and at the last report were running at the rate of more than $1,250,000 weekly.

This is a good sign. At this season of the year householders of America turn to the traditional spring housecleaning, and in this wholesome activity there is no more adequate clean-up than the paint-up.

Those who refrain from adequately painting exposed wood are in the class with the penny-wise, pound-foolish. In addition, failure to paint loses one an esthetic pleasure which must be classed with one of the truest joys of life.

Enormous sales of paints, varnishes and lacquers show that the American people are learning the wisdom of the slogan, "Save the surface and you save all!" Although this was adopted as sales propaganda, it was but the veriest truth, and, as such, struck the common sense of the public.

A good coat or two of fresh paint of good quality not only saves wood, but in cleans and seals in germs, cleans the surface with new beauty, beautifies a home with fresh cleanliness.

A survey of any community, however, will show that paint factories might be run at increased pace, if one may judge from the number of buildings that seem not to have been painted for years upon years.

Upon one main highway running into Washington, at a certain point, the visitor sees several score frame buildings which it would be charity to say had been painted inside of twenty years. As long as such conditions prevail, much yet remains to be done to spread the gospel of paint and plenty of it. —Washington Star.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A great many years ago the Cape of Good Hope was called the Cape of All Storms. For a long period in the history of navigation no sailing ship had been able to pass it. Finally as men worked harder at the trade of sailing and grew more skilful, the Cape of All Storms came to be called the Cape of Good Hope. Is there not a lesson for the human spirit in that bit of history of the sea?

Most of us are prone to quick conclusions without all the facts. We think that the motor truck is putting the railroad out of business or hurting it severely. Then we look at a few figures and find the railroads doing better in profits than ever before. Along comes Jardine, secretary of agriculture, and clears up the matter by telling us that motor trucks do not hurt the railroads by taking away the short hauls because the short hauls were never profitable. And there you are.

Not all figures are wearisome. Here are a very few to read and weep about. The population of England, Scotland and Wales is 38,000,000. In all England, Scotland and Wales there were, in 1926, seventy-one murders. In the same period there were almost five times that many in New York City alone.

Somebody says the newspapers print too much news about crime and thereby suggest crime to weak minds. The facts are against that theory. British newspapers print more crime news in proportion to the total amount of reading matter than American newspapers. Sir Robert Peacock, head of the Manchester police, says American newspapers do not print enough news about crime and criminals. He says if they printed more it would help the police more.

What is the answer? Why so much crime in the United States? Delay in our court procedure, the possibility of stalling indefinitely, the likelihood of a light sentence, good treatment, and a quick parole—all these are to be listed high among causes.

This country is in dire need of faster work by lawyers and quicker action in the courts following crimes.

Don't boast that you always finish what you begin. It's often better to have sense enough to make a new start.

Vagrant Verse.

WHITHER?

Oh, tell me, I pray,
Met you a vagabond going that way?
Bore he a scythe? Had he long, hoary beard?
Noted you furtive looks as he neared?
Live lore untold treasure—a life's hoarded store—
And none but the vagabond passed by my door.
You say he trekked slowly, weighed down by a pack?
Oh tell me, sir, caught you a glimpse in his sack?
Saw you there anything glittering bright?
Anything rosy or silvery white?
Greater in value than earth's rarest gem—
Dreams, cherished hopes—saw you nothing of them?
Time, the old robber! I know it was he.
Call to me! Why does he not wait for me?
Can they be lost? Oh, sir, tell me I pray,
Journeys that vagabond no more this way?

In Paris, the Gay.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Paris, May 18 — From a balcony window this morning I watched Paris awaken. It was before sun-up, and the roofs shone with a silvery gray. As the skies shifted from pink to reddish rays, cathedral bells broke the silence. It seemed difficult to believe in Paris wickedness.

From the faubourgs could be heard the monotonous dull rumble of the ancient cavalcade of vegetable carts returning to market. Across Place Vendome a gendarme with his shoulder cape and white club stood in front of his portable hutch and preened his waxed mustache.

The artificial morning bustle so peculiar to Paris began. Each dawn is an excitement. Ponderous doors creaked. Bread boys cycled by, whistling. Lights sparkled in the lodges of the concierge. Skillets rattled. Dogs came out to stretch and bark. The streets were suddenly acrawl with tiny honking taxis.

The great town lived and swarmed like worms in a tin. The phantoms of night had vanished. Paris goes to its work with a joyous rush. Whiskered old men with baguettes bundled in oil cloth on their bicycle handlebars raced by. The spindly-legged and pale sewing children moved by in groups chattering like so many birds in an aviary.

The overtone of French child labor is pronounced in the early morning. Perky uniformed boys in their tambourine caps hop-skipped along to their tasks of opening doors and running errands. Porters removed the fluted iron shutters from the dazzling windows of the rue de la Paix.

A group of priests with their flat-crowned wide-brimmed hats and long black flowing robes walked solemnly toward the gardens of the Tuileries. Gay midinettes, brightly rouged were already starting off with gaudily-labeled boxes. Men harnessed like donkeys to carts plodded along.

Snowy white small tables topped with blue seltzer bottles began to dot the front of cafes and so does Paris begin its day of loose turbulent happiness, violent gestures and universal amiability. It does not seem there is any place quite like it in the world.

For some reason or other I always feel embarrassed when those male "chambermaids" with pencil-striped black and white vests and licking aprons enter a Paris hotel room to clean up and make the beds. The one today had a luxuriant growth of whiskers. He, like all the rest, laughed uproariously at my mean French.

I suppose he thought, too, "another crazy American," for when he came into the room I was on my back on the floor in pajamas romping with the dog and trying to lift him toward the ceiling with my feet.

Along the Rue de Rivoli at noon time I saw Mary Miles Minter, the American movie actress, and her mother. She has grown quite plump. I understand she is living quietly at a small family hotel in Montmartre, studying diction and other branches of stage deportment, in the hope of some day joining the ranks of the legitimate stage players.

I have yet to visit Paris without running into S. Jay Kaufman, a New York newspaperman. I plumped into him today at Rumpelmayer's. He was just catching a train for Budapest. At a table near him was E. Berry Wall, once the New York fashion plate, with his ever-present Chow dog. He clings to the wide-winged collar and ponderous Ascot tie that Fifth avenue promenaders once knew so well. Among others I saw today were Uierre van Passen, the writer; Eva Steinmetz, Arthur Moss, who founded the Greenwich Village Quill; Erskine Gwynne, the American play boy; Basil Woon, a newspaper correspondent-turned author; Isaac F. Marcosson, the magazine writer, and C. F. Bertilli, also a correspondent. And a good one.

I stopped in this evening at an apartment where I once lived in the Avenue Henri Martin. The mustached concierge was so glad to see me she refused a fifty-franc note, and if you know Paris that is hospitality. — Copyright 1927.

HUGH EVANDER WILLIS.

Hugh Evander Willis was born at Stratton, Vermont, February 27, 1875. He began his career as an instructor of law at the University of Minnesota in 1902, becoming a full professor in 1910. From 1913 to 1915 he was dean and professor of law at Southwestern university law school, Los Angeles. He served in like capacities at the University of North Dakota from 1917 to 1922. In the latter year Willis was appointed professor of law at Indiana university. He is the author of several volumes on different phases of law and is a frequent contributor to law periodicals.

Speaking of the problem of how to live, Professor Willis says:

"The problem of how to live together as they ought to live is as old as the human race. No sooner did people begin to live together than social problems began to arise. As they changed from pastoral to agricultural and commercial conditions, and from rural to urban surroundings the problems grew.

"Every one has a part to play in the great plan of making a better world. Every one has some work than he can do, perhaps better than any one else; at any rate something that he can do to give all a 'more abundant life.' He should do it. Students should learn the meaning of life as a whole. They should think about what will give men, all men, real life; what will make them great and happy. They should discover the obstacles which stand in the way of the realization of such a life. They should study the problems of life. They should make a critical examination of the values of our civilization. Then, with the training and knowledge which they have acquired, they should undertake to remove the obstacles and solve the problems.

"Christianity teaches that the way for men to obtain life is by the way of service instead of by the way of selfishness, by the way of cooperation instead of by the way of competition and by the way of brotherhood instead of by the way of individualism. Is Christianity right? The educated young man ought at least to be able to answer this question. If Christianity is right, he ought to be able to help discover ways by which to put the principles of Christianity into operation. Every student should, after graduation, go out into society to put into application the truths which he has discovered in college. This is education. Nothing else is worthy of the name."

BRITISH CRITICIZE HANKOW GOVERNMENT

Peking, May 18 — The Nationalist government in Hankow has failed to govern according to the standards of modern government and has skirked acceptance of moderate terms from the powers and therefore is both useless and undesirable, declared a British note handed to Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Hankow government, by Basil Newton, British representative, who announced his immediate withdrawal from Hankow.

To Deal Chiang

British diplomatic representatives will remain in Hankow but the British government has let it be known in no uncertain terms that in any future relations with the Nationalists it will deal with Chiang Kai Shek.

Great Britain gives assurances that its policy toward meeting legitimate Chinese aspirations is unchanged, but declares that Chen and his colleagues have failed to establish themselves or demonstrate their ability to lay down legitimate aspirations.

In Chinese circles it is predicted that Chang Tso Lin will not return to Peking but will go to Mukden to await a general call to him to assume the presidency of the Chinese republic, which step has apparently been decided upon.

Wives, Children Return

The improved situation in Peking is reflected in the return of the wives and children of the attaches of the American legation, who have been in refuge in Japan for five weeks.

General Smedley Butler, U. S. M. C. commander, arrived today and is conferring with American Minister MacMurray regarding the defense of Americans in North China. The British minister in Shanghai is holding similar conferences with the British military authorities and it is understood that the British intend to increase the Peking and Tientsin garrisons by ten battalions.

MARYSVILLE MAN BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Orville Gibson, 26, Waives Examination When Arraigned in Local Court

Orville Gibson, 26 of Marysville, arrested in connection with the round-up of farm robbery suspects conducted by Sheriff James A Deal, waived examination when arraigned in Municipal Court, this morning, and was bound over to the grand jury.

Gibson, the last of eight men arrested in the robbery probe, pleaded not guilty and demanded a preliminary hearing at his first arraignment several days ago. When brought in this morning he announced that he had changed his mind and would waive examination. as a result of this decision, his case was reported at once to the grand jury, in session here today.

Clyde Rogers, another of the eight alleged robbers, was arrested again last night after having been out on bond several days. Another charge of grand larceny filed against him led to the second arrest and his return to the county prison.

MRS. LOLA I. STEVENS IS VICTIM OF DROPSY

Funeral Services Will Be Held Friday Afternoon at Funeral Home

Mrs. Lola Irene Stevens, 37, wife of Willis B. Stevens, died at 6:30 o'clock this morning at her home in Pleasant Township. Death was due to dropsy from which she had suffered for a year.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the C. E. Curtis & Co. Funeral Home. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery.

Mrs. Stevens is the daughter of Alice M. Cecil Minnick, originally from Muncie, Ind., and Theodore Minnick of Delaware County, Ind., both of whom now reside near Marion. She was born in Muncie, June 28, 1889 and was married in Cleveland to Willis B. Stevens Dec. 19, 1916.

Surviving with the husband and parents, are one sister, Mrs. Mildred Burdett, 240 Oak-st, and one brother, Cecil W. Minnick, 212 Ackerman-av.

ance. They are no longer a guarantee of safety. They are fine targets for bombing airplanes. We must now depend upon submarines, aircraft and mines.

Asked how he regarded the policy of the United States as to submarines, the admiral replied that it was very good.

Won't Be Outlawed

During the war Germany and the allies had better submarines than we had but now the United States is building better submarines than they are, he said.

Germany did marvelous things during the war with its 500 ton submarines. Now we have 3,000 submarines that can steam faster than 95 per cent of the vessels at sea. These big submarines are fast in action, hard to detect, are safe and seaworthy and capable of carrying enough oil to go around the world without being refueled.

Admiral Sims predicted that the nations of the world will never outlaw the submarine. If they did, he said, Great Britain would automatically and unquestionably be complete mistress of the seas because of Britain's superiority in other fighting craft and naval bases. This situation other nations will not stand for, he said, adding that the naval strategy of the next war will concern itself largely to assuring ample supplies of petroleum because of its need not only for surface craft but for the submarine.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT CORN BORER

discussed at yesterday's conference, may result in some changes in orders previously issued.

The conference with Truax lasted about two hours. The director of agriculture was informed that Marion County farmers in general are strongly in favor of corn borer eradication warfare but believe that it is now too late in the season to carry out some features of the clean-up work.

It was explained that farmers in this county have made a sincere effort as a rule to remove all remnants of last year's corn crop from their land but have been greatly handicapped by unfavorable weather and inadequate equipment.

Under government regulations as originally outlined, no farmer would be compensated for his work unless it resulted in a 100 per cent clean-up. It is expected this rule will be amended, due to lateness of the season, so that the 100 per cent provision will not be rigidly enforced.

Gets Notice

Unrest among farmers throughout the county approached near the seething point last Saturday when James B. Guthery received a notice ordering him to remove all corn crop remnants from 160 acres of land west of the city in Big Island Township which had been planted for oats. The notice gave him 48 hours to do the work.

This was the only specific case coming before Truax in the conference yesterday and he indicated that the matter would be satisfactorily adjusted.

Mr. Guthery and his son, L. H Guthery, who have extensive land holdings west of Marion, are enthusiastic supporters of the corn borer campaign, Truax was informed, and have done everything possible to comply with the government clean-up regulations. The oats field was planted before the corn borer eradication campaign was started and the oats are now about seven inches above ground.

The crop would be virtually ruined, it was stated, should a clean-up crew go into the field to remove the corn crop refuse.

Indicates Withdrawal

Truax indicated that the clean up notice would be withdrawn and this is regarded as evidence that a similar policy will apply to other farms throughout the county where crops have been planted.

Should this rule become effective, it will apply only to land owners who have done their best to aid in corn borer eradiction work. Farmers who have clearly ignored government regulations and displayed a belligerent attitude will have their premises cleaned up regardless of possible damage to crops, it was indicated.

The delegation had expected to talk the situation over with Governor Donahey also, but abandoned that part of their plans upon ascertaining that full authority in the corn borer work rests with Truax. This was determined by Fred E. Guthery, who called on the governor prior to the meeting with Truax.

In the delegation, in addition to Mr. Guthery, were Hoke Donithen, local attorney, Charles E. Merkel, president of the Marion Savings Bank, H. W. Cookston, J. A. Washburn and O. C. Howser, members of the corn borer information force in Marion County, L. H Guthery, H A. Loudenslager and John Back, farm owners.

The three corn borer inspectors accompanied the party for the purpose of getting first hand information from Truax.

WAR CLOUDS STILL HOVER OVER COUNTY

War clouds have not vanished entirely from Marion County's corn borer zone in spite of the encouraging report brought back from Columbus yesterday by a delegation of citizens who conferred with Director of Agriculture Truax and were apparently convinced that there will be no trouble in this locality.

C. E. Wharton of Kenton, representative of the Farmers' Defense League of Hardin County was in the city yesterday afternoon seeking to arrange for a mass meeting of farmers and other citizens in protest against the corn borer clean up. He is said to have interested a number of local opponents of the corn borer campaign and may announce arrangements for the mass meeting later.

Represents Faction

Wharton, it is said, represents a faction which claims that there is no necessity of corn borer eradication measures in Marion County and nearby territory. It is alleged that actual evidence of borer infestation in this locality has never been produced by either state or federal authorities.

This faction is separate from another alignment of farmers who are in favor of carrying on the corn borer campaign in this territory but believe that it should not be done at this time while planting of crops should be in progress. They believe that the clean-up campaign should be delayed until after the fall harvest season.

Miss Blanche Seitz, 503 N. State-st, who owns land in Wyandot County, has written several articles in opposition to the corn borer clean-up drive which have been published in recent issues of the weekly newspaper at Nevada.

SIX CAMPING PERIODS TO BE HELD THIS YEAR

Two-Week Outings for Boys and Girls Planned by Y. M. C. A.

Six camping periods of two weeks each are planned for boys and girls of Marion during the summer months, Donald M. Burson, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A announced today.

The camp will be conducted at Camp Robert Uhler, Hepburn, under the supervision of Mr. Burson, with Jack Ullery, center on the Ohio State University football team, in charge of the physical program.

Mr. Ullery, who stands six feet, one inch, in height, will teach the rudiments of football in connection with his regular athletic program and local directors of the camp consider themselves extremely fortunate in obtaining his services for the summer months.

The first camping period is to open June 21 and continue until July 5. Cadets, youth ranging from 12 to 14 years in age, will make use of this period. The next two periods are held for Preps, boys from nine to 12 years.

Two For Girls

Three other periods have been arranged for, two for girls and one for Hi-Y boys. The success of these plans depends upon the number of applications received for the camp work. The first girls' camp will be held Aug. 2 to Aug 12 for those ranging from 12 to 15 years in age. The second will follow for girls nine to 12 years old. Hi-Y boys will have camp from Aug. 22 to Sept. 2.

A number of improvements has been made at Camp Uhler since last season. A new athletic house has been constructed providing, in addition to many facilities, a place for summer basketball. A sailboat is now part of the equipment of the camp, a cinder track has been built and each period will feature a track and field meet. Electric lights have been installed.

Provide Emblem

Emblems will be awarded to those meriting the honor. A number of business men have planned to attend the camp on various occasions to join in the activities for a day and make a survey of the benefit reaped from the outing.

Several of the boys are ready to go. Taking up the bank system early this winter and depositing 25 cents each week, the boys now have their trip paid for.

PETITIONS FOR STATE REFERENDUM APPROVED

Bender and Cohorts Ready To Start Campaign on Marshall Bill

Columbus, May 18—Sen. George H. Bender, Cleveland, today was in receipt of Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown's approval of the form, arrangement and substance of the petitions proposed to be circulated throughout Ohio with a view to subjecting to a referendum at the statewide elections next November the Marshall Bill, recently passed by the Ohio legislature, fixing compensation for village mayors, justices of the peace, constable and village marshals.

The committee in charge of the referendum campaign consists of Bender, Sen Nils P. Johnson, Youngstown, and Maxwell Wolgamot, Cleveland.

Bender stated that the campaign for signatures will begin today or Thursday. To insure a referendum, petitions containing not less than approximately 84,000 valid signatures of Ohio voters must be filed with the secretary of state not later than August 8 next. These signatures must include not less than 3 per cent of the voters in at least 44 counties who cast ballots for governor last November.

UPRISING COLLAPSES

"Emperor of Philippines" Virtual Prisoner on Yacht of Wood

Manila, P. I. May 18—With the emperor of the Philippines a virtual prisoner aboard the official yacht of Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, the serious uprising in occidental negroes province was expected to collapse today.

Flor Intrencherado, self-proclaimed emperor, surrendered personally to General Wood after a long conference with the governor-general. Intrencherado agreed to come with Wood to Manila. Over 1,000 armed followers of Intrencherado forming an imperial bodyguard, were disbanded.

Intrencherado's surrender relieved a situation that had taken on alarming aspects. Believing him to be divinely appointed to lead them in revolt, 600,000 malcontents in the Visayan provinces were prepared to rise up against the government.

The company, which was established here several months ago, has a used car sales yard at the rear of the Letonia building on W Center-st.

MARION ATTORNEY IN COLUMBUS ON LAW CASE

Fred W. Warner Taking Depositions in Unusual Suit Involving Insurance Company

Fred W Warner Marion attorney, is in Columbus completing taking of depositions in a suit started in the Ohio Supreme Court by the Celina Mutual Life Insurance Co. asking for a court order directing the state insurance commissioner to grant the company an operating license.

The application for a license was rejected some time ago by Harry L Conn, shortly before he resigned as insurance commissioner.

The suit is unusual in many respects, being one of the few cases started in the state's highest court. Due to the fact that the Supreme Court does not hear presentation of testimony from witnesses in person, all of the evidence must be taken in depositions.

Warner and the law firm of Vorys, Seymour & Peas of Columbus began taking depositions about two weeks ago. They expect to wind up the work within a few days.

DENIES SPEAKER PLANS TO PURCHASE INDIANS

Mrs. Dunn, Owner of Cleveland Ball Club, Knows Nothing of Report

Cleveland, May 18—Reports current in local sporting circles today that Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, was negotiating to buy the club, were denied by both Mrs. James C. Dunn, the present owner, and E. S. Barnard, president of the Indians.

"All I know about it is what I read in the newspapers," Mrs Dunn remarked. "If Speaker is planning to buy the club, I know nothing of it."

It is known that Mrs Dunn is ready to dispose of her interests in the team if her price is met. Thus far, however, no one has offered what she considers a fair figure.

Speaker is known to have a worthwhile sum to invest and he is also said to have a close friend, reputed to be worth several millions who would probably back him.

Speaker is playing centerfield for the Washington Americans, starting a series with the Tigers at Detroit today.

SAYS NEW FORD CAR TO BE STARTED ON JULY 1

Detroit City Council Authorizes Immediate Purchase of 111 Present Models

Detroit, May 18—The Ford Motor Co. will abandon the manufacture of the present Ford car on May 28 and start production July 1 on a new gear shift car, Theodore P. Kolbe, secretary of the police department, told the common council today in recommending the immediate purchase for police work of 111 of the present models.

The council after listening to Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge and Kolbe, passed a resolution authorizing the purchase. E. H. Martin, a representative of the Detroit branch of the Ford Motor Co., was present in the council chamber.

Kolbe told the council his information came from an authoritative source.

GUEST DAY PARTY

Catherine Woods Auxiliary Members Enjoy Program

Members of the Catherine Woods Auxiliary, First Presbyterian Church, enjoyed a six o'clock dinner and guest day party last night at the home of Mrs. G W. Curtiss, 141 Sharpless-st. During the program hour Mrs. Raymond Smiley gave a talk on the subject, "Modern Missionary Work" and her son, Robert Smiley, entertained with two recitations. A play, "Why the Missionary Meeting was a Failure," was presented by Mrs. Pearl Kerr Mrs. Walter Smith, Misses Helen Atchinson, May Given, Jessie Henderson and Elnore Tschanen. Financial and program committee reports for the year were given by Miss Atchinson and Miss Given.

Guests from Marion included Mrs. Herman Seckel, Mrs. Lloyd Cookston, Mrs Charles Miller, Mrs J. W. Hungate, Mrs J. H Jackson, Mrs. Dr. Lorena Kagay, Mrs Raymond Smiley, and Miss Audrey Bolander.

LEND-A- HAND CIRCLE MEETS AT RESLER HOME

Caledonia, May 18—The Lend-a-Hand Circle, King's Daughters, met at the home of Miss Florence Resler Monday night with 10 members present. Mrs. F. S Fancher presided for the devotional service and also gave the lesson study, "The Story of Nicodemus," from the book entitled, "Teachings of the Personality of Jesus" by Professor Walker. It was decided that a membership fee drive, be conducted. Miss Maurine Rudolph entertained with two readings. A social hour followed and lunch was served by Miss Resler and assistant hostesses, Mrs. L. E. Rinker, Mrs. R. L Clayton, Mrs. Herbert Highly and Miss Miss Anna Gist. The next meeting place was not decided definitely.

MISS MARIE STULL IS ELECTED HEAD OF LEAGUE

Miss Marie Stull was elected president of the Senior League of Calvary Evangelical Church, at a meeting of that organization last night at the church. George Bensley was elected vice president, Miss Madella Seiter, recording secretary, Miss Margaret Lusch, corresponding secretary, and Carlos Saiter, treasurer. Routine business was transacted. Parks Kennedy was heard in a vocal solo, Mrs. J W. Baker playing his piano accompaniment.

REDMEN MEET

One application was received at the meeting of members of the Redmen's Lodge last night. Plans were made to confer the chief's degree on a class of candidates at the next meeting in one week.

FAMILY RETURNS

Mr and Mrs Alphonse W. Lares and daughter, Jacquelyn, Blaine-av, have returned from Geneva, N. Y., where they were called two weeks ago by the death of Mrs. Lares' father, Roy Rogers, formerly of this city.

Pain in Your Shoulder?

It's Probably Neuritis; Use Tyanol for Relief

Knife like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tyanol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tyanol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. You can get a good supply for $1 at any drug store. Always on hand at

MEMBERS of the Marion Sorosis Club entertained with a delightful guest day party yesterday afternoon in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Miniature balloons in pastel shades arranged a charming color note and the same shades predominated in the bouquets of sweet peas held in bud vases, which centered the small tables at which covers were placed for 40 at a one o'clock luncheon. Mrs. E. O. Smith was in charge of the luncheon and also presided during the program hour.

Mrs. W. E. Rice, the president, gave a brief greeting and Mrs. Lewis Uhl, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs, gave a short talk on club work. A vocal number, "I Love a Little Cottage," O'Hara, was given by Mrs. George Schneider, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. L. Cleveland, and Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. W. E. Rice entertained with a piano duet.

A group of readings, "When We Were Very Young," Milne, was delightfully presented by Mrs. Rodney B. Hume, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harry J. Mautz, and Mrs. DeWitt Shadaker sang "The Robins Sing in the Apple Tree," MacDowell, and "Love's a Merchant" Carew. Her accompaniments were played by Mrs E. L. Cleveland.

Guests included Mrs. L. E. Pfeiffer of Columbus; Mrs. Dale Toms, of Prospect; Mrs. Lewis Uhl, Mrs. E. H. Bindley, honorary member of the club; Mrs. Albert J. Mautz, Mrs. Emil Sweney, Mrs. Albert Klepper Mrs. Norris Crissinger, Mrs. C. H. King, Mrs. A. J. Sautter, Mrs. William Wiley, Mrs. Glen Lowry, Mrs. L. M. Shadaker, Mrs. G. F. Bechtel, Mrs. J. W. Marion Group is Largest at Bellefontaine Meet

Of the 150 delegates in attendance at the sixteenth annual group convention of King's Daughters yesterday at Bellefontaine, Marion's delegation of 14 representatives proved the largest, exceeding even the Bellefontaine representation. Marion, Allen, Logan, Crawford, and Hardin County circles were represented at the meeting.

Plans were made for the state convention of King's Daughters to be held in Marion Oct. 4, 5 and 6, at which more than 350 delegates are expected to attend. A special conference of Marion delegates was held with Mrs. W. D. Fulton of Columbus, state president in preparation for the convention State officials will be elected at that time.

Appeals for Support

In an interesting address, Mrs. Fulton appealed for the support of the two King's Daughters homes, "Maple Crest", a school for girls at Bucyrus now having a total of 26 girls, and Rock Ledge Inn at Catawba Island near Port Clinton, a vacation home for King's Daughters and wage earning girls and women.

Mrs. J. F. Neidhart of In-as-Much Circle, Marion, gave a splendid paper "Our Magazine, The Silver Cross," which closed with a recitation of an original poem by Mrs. Harry Gurley, also of this city. The magazine is edited by Mrs. Sara F. Gunn of Columbus, council member and former state president, who is well-known here.

Reports of the various circles were given by the circle leaders, Mrs. Walter E. Miley, city union leader, gave the report for Marion County in the absence of Mrs. W. F. Pasters, Marion president. Mrs. Fulton and Mrs. Alexander Switzer, Logan County president, presided. In closing a beautiful consecration service was led by Mrs. Fulton.

Blemished Skin Clears Up Quickly

Sunshine and wind are not always kind to us. When dainty complexions and hands are exposed to their burning and roughening effect they become freckled, tanned or discolored; usually in spots.

A minute's care will whiten the skin again. Simply squeeze the juice of two lemons into a three-ounce bottle of Orchard White, which you can get from your nearest store, and massage the complexion and hands with this lotion.

You will be delighted with the way it clears your skin and revives its youthful charm.—Adv.

Tanlac Restores Health to Cincinnati Lady

Mrs. Elizabeth Fuhrman, 129 Klotter Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio, tells of unique experience. Ill from girlhood, she suffered acutely from stomach and nervous disorders Gives Tanlac full credit for present fine health

"Since I was sixteen years old," said Mrs. Fuhrman, "stomach and nervous troubles kept me weak and rundown. Nothing I could do seemed to overcome those distressing conditions, and I had come to the belief I could never be healthy again. The slightest exertion used to exhaust me, and I could not eat the lightest food without suffering afterwards. It lay like a lump in my stomach and caused a tight choking feeling in my chest and throat.

"But all those symptoms have disappeared and I'm enjoying the best health of my life since trying Tanlac. Instead of the old torpid drowsy feeling that dragged me down, I'm spry and active. Instead of the old headaches and dizzy spells my head is clear and free from pain, I eat, sleep and feel like an entirely new woman. Tanlac is the best ever and has my full endorsement."

Try Tanlac if you're rundown. It is nature's tonic made from roots, barks and herbs. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Mansour asks Grenfall if he will go to Morocco, find the Temple, endure the Ordeal and crush the Group—all of which is Greek to Grenfall. He is to find a certain Omar ben Medjad. Then Mansour dies. Giles has instructions to open a certain trunk and take care of the letters he will find therein.

Giles and Grenfall open the trunk, finding Mansour's will and a letter to Grenfall asking him to carry out the instructions he gave him before he died. Grenfall takes the ruby ring and tells Giles he is going to Morocco.

Larry arrives in Morocco and is solicited for alms by a mendicant.

He shows the token—the ruby ring and the mendicant guides him to an alley where he changes his costume for that of the mendicant and he is pulled into a house by a Moor to whom he again shows his token

CHAPTER SEVEN

LARRY followed the one-eyed man down another twisting passageway, then up a flight of stairs into a room that was barren of life or furnishings. Here, the other opened a door and the American felt the fetid breath of the African night fanning his cheeks. As from a distance he could hear the night life of the market.

His guide emerged into another of the apparently numberless alley ways and hurried swiftly off. Larry behind him. For 10 minutes they proceeded thus, dodging and twisting down a myriad of byways, until they paused before a low nondescript building which had no windows. The guide fumbled briefly, then the door opened and Larry was shoved inside. The door closed again and a light flared. Now Larry's guide greeted him cordially, speaking perfect English:

"Mr. Grenfall, welcome to the home of Omar ben Medjad. Permit me to extend my sincere apologies for the sorriness of the outside appearance, but I have reasons for it; also, permit me to say I am sorry I had to receive you as I did, but, my friend, it was necessary. I had intended that you come to the Shop of Hold, but times are perilous at the present, and without my shop I would be useless in the work I am doing, hence at the last minute I had to change my plans and receive you otherwise. Now, we can talk, but let it be in English please. I fear no prying eyes here, and no distended ears; still it is ever the part of wisdom to play safe."

The man now removed the patch from his eye and stood revealed with perfect sight. The patch had been, it was plain, a disguise. He bowed and turned from the room.

"Be seated, Mr. Grenfall, and be comfortable while I make coffee; also, I must cleanse my self of this disguising filth. When the coffee is ready, I shall rejoin you here. You will, I trust, help yourself to my cigarets." He pushed forward a taboret with a jar of cigarets setting on it.

Larry lit one, then threw himself full length on a low divan, waiting. In a half hour Omar ben Medjad returned, bearing coffee, cups and a couscous. Larry was startled at the transformation in the man's appearance. His beard no longer was matted, but was combed to a neat point; his skin was several degrees lighter, thanks to having been cleansed of its dirt, and his clothes were those of a man of wealth and station. He set the coffee on a taboret and proceeded to pour it. Then, as Larry sipped at the strong, aromatic decoction, he said:

"When you are quite finished with your coffee, let me have that burnouse and turban. Abdu will be here shortly and I shall return it to him."

"That miserable fool caused an uproar that—"

Omar laughed in his beard.

"T was but a ruse, Mr. Grenfall. I must confess that I was back of it all. You are to disappear this night, my friend, and Abdu and I could think of no better way to put you out of the road than to have you murdered. Therefore, consider yourself dead, this very minute, and your body thrown into the muddy waters of the town canal."

Larry rose, startled.

"What do you mean?" he snapped, and his hand hovered near the butt of his heavy automatic.

Again Omar laughed

"Simply, my friend, that it is necessary for you to drop from sight without the knowledge of the commandant at the fort. You are here, seeking. Very well; but to seek, you must seek as one of us. To do this you must disappear as an American and never be heard from in Ab Dukkar again. How could you be made to disappear easier, pray tell, than by my little plan?"

"That plan is—?" Larry's voice still was a little thin.

"The plan is that Abdu, the Doukkala mendicant, raised a hue and cry that you had robbed him. A crowd of men were seen to pursue you down a dark alleyway. You were never seen again, but certain blood spots were left at intervals in the alley and the ground has the appearance of having been struggled over. The blood spots and the signs of the struggle will be found tomorrow. Likewise, some of your clothing which you will give me tonight, will be found near these blood spots in the dirt. The French commandant will write in his red book the details of another murder at unknown hands, adding that the whereabouts of the body also is unknown. Simple enough, is it not?"

"But, I do not understand, I'm afraid," Larry confessed.

"For one who has written of the intrigues of my country, you are woefully dense this night," Omar rejoined. "I have merely staged a murder, Mr. Grenfall, to throw the military off the scent; also their Partisan soldier-allies. It is necessary that tonight you become a Moor. Inasmuch as the commandant does not know you, did not even see you, he probably will think you were someone who amounted to little or nothing and after a cursory examination he will forget the incident. The mendicant started that row for that purpose. When you leave here this night, my friend, you will leave as Youssef-el-Habbassi, a powerful wizard. After that—Allah alone may say."

"It is a good thing I faked a passport so that when they hunt down my record they'll find it was only a sailor who had shore leave and deserted that was murdered." Larry chuckled, appreciating the situation. Then he added: "When I leave here, I leave to find a Temple and fetch to you—"

"A casket," Omar ben Medjad rejoined gravely, his eyes glittering. "Now, I see you have finished your coffee. To work please. Lay aside your clothing and don the apparel I have prepared", and he indicated a pile of Moorish clothing nearby.

Larry rose and emptied his pockets, laying twelve small cubes down with extreme caution. Then, removing his American-made apparel, he donned the garb of the Moor, the flowing brown burnouse covering him almost to his ankles. Deftly he wound his turban, so that anyone watching would never have known it was not experienced Berber or Algerian hands that performed the trick.

"Curse it, Omar; it is imperative that I have places to carry some of these things I've brought with me. Great guns, man, I couldn't wizard worth a cent if I lost my paraphernalia."

Omar laughed.

"Search about your new togs; pockets have been prepared especially. You see, I knew you would bring a magician's accouterments, for you were destined from the very start to play the role of a taleb, and I made ready for you."

Larry stared at the other in wonder.

"I must say that you are either an infernally good guesser or you have had what we Americans call inside information concerning me."

In a few minutes he had disposed of his things and when he had finished he turned to Omar and, speaking in guttural Chleuh said:

"Father of jackals, what of my costume? Offspring of the hill wolves, will I pass muster?"

A grim smile crossed Omar's face.

"So much so? moulay, that the Sultan himself would accept you as a true Believer. Ai, Mr. Grenfall, you will do; now, from this moment you are Youssef el-Habbassi, wizard. You will find you are already known, for I have taken pains to have word of your coming spread in advance and your reputation has not suffered at my hands. But I head Abdu knocking. Peace, till he enters."

Like a breath of the mysterious night without, the Doukkala mendicant slipped through the door, salaaming to Omar ben Medjad. He threw a sullen glance toward Larry and salaamed his eyebrows questioningly, whereon Omar nodded in his turn.

[illegible] you would wish for [illegible] for your disguise, boots, caps and sandals [illegible] Mogador, the three [illegible] to Larry, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] had placed for him, told them.

"At an intersection of alleys in the Ber Kedjz we killed a goat, and made a goodly scattering of blood about the place. When the Partisan police and soldiers arrived there was naught to be found save signs of a struggle and those bloody splotches. The commanding officer routed from their houses those who live in the neighborhood, among them being this humble follower of Allah. We did report sounds of a struggle in the night, of harsh voices and the frightened wailing of a nassrani; we also told of having heard blows struck, then a sound as though a body had been dragged hurriedly away. True enough we must have spoken, for the Partisan police found signs of the fighting, saw the blood and picked up a mark which seemed to indicate a heavy object had been dragged across the ground. These signs disappeared at the canal and the search ended there. The Partisans could not know that a weighted sack had made the marks, nor that the sack even now lies at the bottom of the muddy waters. Ai, it will be an excellent report the commandant will be given on this," and the mendicant chuckled grimly.

"You have done well, Abdu," said Omar, seeing the man had finished his coffee. "You may go."

Why do men sing in the bathtub? Chiefly because the water isn't warm enough. They really want to yell.

Every epigram challenges you to refute it.

Women Launch Their Third World's Fair

Above are some of the women who are managing the third Women's World Fair, and prominent women chosen by their states to attend the "Famous Women's Breakfast."

Chicago, Ill., May 18—The accomplishments of women in more than a hundred industrial and professional fields will be mirrored in the third annual Women's World Fair to be held in the Coliseum here May 19-27.

Beneath the smartly striped awnings of gay little booths women who have built roads, invented vanity accessories, bred foxes or Jersey cows, won international prizes in art or literature or baked better pie crust than their neighbors, will display their wares.

Miss Helen B. Bennett of Chicago, who originated the idea three years ago again is the managing director of the fair. Mrs. George Bass is chairman of the board of directors, and the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra, with Miss Elena Monjeak, leader, has been officially appointed to furnish the music.

Noted Women Coming

"Famous Women's Day" will be celebrated on May 24, when each state in the union will send a distinguished daughter to be the honorary guest at the Famous Women's Breakfast.

Ohio will send Judge Florence E. Allen, only woman judge of a state Supreme Court. New Jersey will be represented by Mrs. Mary T. Norton, congresswoman. Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, former president general of the Federation of Women's Clubs, will come from Texas; Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Des Moines, lecturer and vice president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, is Iowa's delegate. Margaret Kelly Cable comes from North Dakota. Miss Cable has attracted nationwide attention by her modeling from North Dakota clays. She is professor of ceramics in the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks.

Governor Jackson of Indiana has appointed a woman road builder, whose engineering skill has contributed to the building of the Dixie Highway, to represent the Hoosier state. She is Miss Dorothy Cunningham, of Martinsville, national Republican committe woman, and the first woman from her state to cast a vote in a national convention.

Kentucky will be represented by Sophonisba Breckenridge, dean of women in the University of Chicago.

Others Coming

Marion Nevins MacDowell, widow of Edward MacDowell, the composer and head of the artist's colony at Peterborough, has been appointed from New Hampshire. Mrs. Solon Jacobs, lecturer, will come from Birmingham, Alabama, and Mrs. Marie Weeks, newspaper publisher, from Norfolk, Nebraska.

Women writers will represent at least five states. Elizabeth Marbury from New York, Mrs. Jesse P. Wilkinson of New Orleans, Louisiana; Mary Hunter Austin of Santa Fe, New Mexico, Mrs. [illegible] Babcock of Little Rock, Arkansas; Mrs. Lois H. Richards of Salt Lake City, Utah.

California's poet laureate, Miss Ina Coolbirth, of Berkeley, has expressed a hope that, in spite of her years, she may be able to attend. She crossed the plains from her native Illinois in a covered wagon.

threw us back an apologetic smile.

"Will you not all come too and share Mr. Graham's discovery?" she asked, and the simple words made me, for one, feel abashed at my imagining there was some unusual mystery afoot. She was simply an impulsive spoiled child, rushing to see some odd feature of the home she had rented, and the red-bearded man who had appeared so stealthily and proffered her the "message," was no doubt the mendicant seeking his own countrymen which Dicky had pronounced him.

Mary, Noel and I followed them down the steps and the path leading to the gate. But halfway to it, Miss Lincoln stopped abruptly and whirled toward the house.

"Please excuse me just a moment," she said, and fairly raced toward the veranda. We saw her dash up the steps and go to the low bookcase upon which Dicky had placed the sealed envelope which the red-bearded man had said contained a "message." She remained with her back to us for an instant, then went on into the house, emerging again only a few seconds later and running lightly down the path.

"I am so sorry," she said with charming contriteness, "but I just thought of something I had neglected, and which had to be done."

Dicky's face expressed only polite acquiescence in her explanation, and she did not look at the rest of us. Noel Veritarn did not look at either Mary or me, but there was a look of ludicrous bewilderment on his face. Mary's eyes, however, bright with excitement and curiosity, sought mine. I knew that her sense of the dramatic and her keen brain were fashioning a most enjoyable mystery, from Miss Lincoln's odd behavior.

Behind the girl's back I shook my head ever so slightly at Mary, and in obedience to my signal she disciplined her eager face and eyes into calmness as we came to the gatepost which our young hostess was eagerly examining.

The gateposts were of white wood, finishing a white picket fence of beautiful design and remarkable quality as its long and successful resistance to the elements showed. To all appearances, the square pieces of wood topping them were firmly fixed upon the bases, but Dicky lifted the right hand one easily from its place, and when Miss Lincoln had finished peering into it, she turned gayly to the rest of us. Whether she never really had been frightened, or from somewhere had summoned courage to smother her fear, I could not tell. But she was the poised woman of the world again as she spoke.

"Come and look," she invited us, and when we had in turn looked into the recess under the top of the gatepost, she added with a side glance at Noel which was distinctly coquettish: "What a wonderful place for love letters! But alas! I have no one to write me any."

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Place for Love-Letters

OF course, no one of our little group on the veranda at The Larches betrayed any open astonishment at Miss Lincoln's abrupt request that Dicky show her the hollowin the right hand gatepost which he said he had discovered. But that each one of them was amazed as well as aware that some mysterious knowledge of her own was causing the patent tense nervousness of our young hostess, I knew by the expression in the eyes of each as they looked at her.

Dicky bowed with a charming smile as she moved swiftly toward him, her face reflecting the curious alarm which she felt.

"It isn't much of a sight," he said. "But it certainly is an ideal hiding place for a letter."

She made him no answer, but laid her hand on his arm in an odd possessive little way—not the modern flapper seizing the nearest attractive man, but a gesture which had in it a curious mixture of formality and appeal—and hurried him down the steps. There she paused with an evident belated realization of her discourtesy, and

Women's Danger

Of offending under the oldest hygienic handicap now ended. New way provides true protection—discards like these

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

WITH the old-time "ordinary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense, plus the embarrassment of disposal. And then spend unhappy days.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better-class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops all danger of offending.

✓ Discards as easily as these. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Be sure you get the genuine, for only Kotex itself is "Kotex." Kotex.

Pains That Never Came

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered pain. Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is Science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows midol.

Your druggist has midol for 50 cents, in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

Midol

Takes Pain Off the Calendar

Sciatic-Neuritis

The sciatic erve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Bradley Drug Store keeps Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.—Adv.

Irresistible Beauty

Girls are so lovely when their hair fairly entices you to touch it and stroke its luxurious silkiness. That's why it is so noticeable when this part of one's toilette is neglected. There is such a decided contrast.

It is so easy, too, to keep the hair young, alive with its natural color and so soft it feels like maribou, that there is no reason to deny yourself this daintiest charm.

Two things will do it—your hair brush and Danderine. Get one of the generous 35c bottles of Danderine from your nearest dealer, wet your brush with a few dashes of it, and draw it through your hair clear to the scalp, with long, even strokes until each strand is alive and glowing, free from dandruff and that oily film which only Danderine can remove. It takes just a few minutes. There is nothing greasy about it, and it does not dry out the hair so that you have to use greasy things afterward to bring it back to life.

From then on you will enjoy the thrills which come to all girls who keep themselves good to look at, and you will never let a day go past without using Danderine. More than a million girls have made it a habit. It will help to keep in your waves.

Posters Modern Method of Teaching School Art, Claim

"Posters are a most proficient and distinctly modern method of teaching school 'art,'" said Miss Edith Keeler, art instructor in the city schools, when interviewed regarding the good health and pure food poster contest recently conducted here. "Practically all of a child's study of art leads towards the time when he can apply that knowledge in making posters, since even the simplest poster will combine many of the elements of a child's knowledge of art imagination, discrimination, simplicity, balance and lettering," she continued.

"A poster must imbody a vivid worth-while idea, must tell a story in a tempting, convincing way, with the thought of creating desire. The new school art texts realize the importance of the poster as a means of developing art among children. The small child is taught to make pictures by tearing the shapes out of colored paper, thus gaining muscular control, essential in the use of scissors. Later he colors his own paper, cutting it with scissors.

Learns Color Theory

As his powers of choice develop he learns the theory of color and the choice of pleasing colors becomes a large part of his work. Meanwhile he has become adept at cutting and arranging letters. First a child uses only one letter, cutting it from a magazine, or one of his own making. Gradually he learns to arrange the letters to form a word, the rest of his picture. Still later when several words are used with his picture, the child realizes he has made a poster. More advanced students use paint and learn to finish their posters in better style.

Paper cutting teaches the child to decide quickly and think clearly, since no corrections are possible. Leading up to high school work in such manner, there is little danger of the "I can't, I'm not artistic" feeling among advanced students and adults.

"Contests arouse an enthusiasm impossible in daily work. If the child has been trained in good sportsmanship, he can be of the utmost value to art. Many of the children in the poster contest just closed far surpassed the expectations of their teachers. Very few accepted help, other than suggestions, from adults. This shows a decided improvement over the spirit existing in previous contests.

BUTTER KRUST BAKERY MOVES TO SEFFNER-AV

Local Trade Will Be Supplied from Firm's Store in Galion Temporarily

The Butter Krust Bakery was moved yesterday from 614 E. Center-st, where it had been operated about 20 years, to its new location at the rear of 225 S. Seffner-av.

Equipment at the Seffner-av plant has not been completely installed and operations there will not be started before early next week. In the meantime the local trade will be supplied from the firm's bakery in Galion.

The local business is managed by A. R. Miller, the new baking plant being located at the rear of his home.

A new oven has been installed and other facilities provided to make the Seffner-av plant up-to-date in every detail, Mr. Miller states.

The E. Center-st building vacated by the bakery is being dismantled and a filling station will be erected on the site.

Borah Doesn't Relish Call from Blease to Lead Dems

Now Bill Knows How It Feels To Be "Named" by Someone

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 18—Sen. Bill Borah knows now how a public character likes it to have some entirely unauthorized individual come along and nominate him, all unbidden, for president, on a ticket that maybe he doesn't want to be identified with—not yet, anyway, if at all.

SENATOR BORAH

Bill did it to Al Smith.

This time Senator Cole Blease has done it to Bill.

WETNESS, as everybody's aware, has been Al's great source of Democratic strength all along.

Inasmuch, however, as it was his great source of weakness, too, his friends were trying to give the impression that he not only was a first class wet, but also a mighty good dry.

Naturally this was best done in whispers.

Unfortunately, the dry Senator Borah chanced to overhear one. What, then, did he do—in no whisper; in stentorian tones—but welcome Al to the dry ranks and place his name before the nation as Democracy as a White House candidate on the Volsteadest of Volstead platforms!

No doubt Bill considered this a real good joke but it was no joke to the Smithites.

Al has to be a wet and he obviously hates to say he isn't a dry and the combination has set him to hushing on the last of all issues that he can afford to hush on.

NOW Borah is a Republican, who would have hard work to prove that he isn't an insurgent, which is something no politician can deny farther than to say certain insurgents have been read out of the Republican party.

It's recognized that Bill probably could be tortured into accepting a presidential nomination.

Nobody talks of torturing him in 1928, but if the "breaks" should be right—if third term-ism should loom up formidably, for instance, or if farm relief should develop into an independent movement, or if times should tighten up, or some such thing—he might waive the torture and run anyway. Or, if not in 1928, then later.

Bill has the presidential bug. There's no question about it.

Well, Bill knows that third party candidates don't get anybody anywhere. If he runs at all, it's essential for him to run as a Republican—a progressive Republican or an independent Republican, or an insurgent Republican, but some kind of a Republican.

HIS Republican brand is Bill's chiefest asset. Without it he'd be a mere maverick. He can't even afford to have anybody say, out loud, that it's a blurred brand, because that's what so many people really are thinking.

And here Sen. Cole Blease gets up and nominates him for president on the Democratic ticket.

The Democratic convention will overrule Blease, to be sure.

The regular Democrats will no more accept Bill as one of themselves than the prohibitionists seem likely to accept Al Smith as a dry.

All the same, just as Borah has cast a shadow on Al's title to be regarded as a wringing wet, even so has Cole Blease cast a shadow on Bill's title to be regarded as a sure-enough Republican.

IT now remains for somebody to say something that will put Blease in a hole.

This will be a difficult stunt.

Plenty of mean things can be said about the South Carolina senator, but he has got one virtue you have to hand it to him for—there's no subterfuge about him.

oyd Streitenberger Gets Life for Slaying of Mellett

RUDNER M'DERMOTT HIO PRISON

ility of First Degree with Mercy Recommendations

lay 12—Floyd E. Streitenr-Canton detective, will be-llow-prisoner of Patrick ermott, of Nanty Glo, Pa., and Ben Rudner, of Massillon, co-conspirators with him in the assassination of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher, here July 16, 1926.

Found guilty of first degree murder, with mercy recommended, Streitenberger faces the penalty of life imprisonment. McDermott and Rudner are already serving similar terms in the state penitentiary.

A jury of nine men and three women brought in the verdict which was read exactly nine hours after they had taken the case. The actual time given to consideration, however, was seven hours and 42 minutes. Given the case at 1:18 p. m. Tuesday, the jury dgliberated until 6 p. m. when an hour was allowed for dinner. Resuming deliberation at 7 p. m. a verdict was reached at exactly 10 o'clock and read at 10:19 p. m. The long deliberation was attributed to debate by members of the jury over the difference between first and second degree verdicts, according to court attaches.

Streitenberger was pale and haggard when he was brought into court to hear the verdict. He seemed almost lifeless, and his smile was gone.

Sentence was deferred for a few days by Judge Clevenger.

Louis Mazer, remaining member of the quartet named in the first degree murder indictments for the Mellett slaying, has confessed. He will probably be given a light sentence as a reward for turning state's evidence.

DETECTIVE SERGEANT GIVEN SUSPENSION

Canton, May 18—Charged with inefficiency and failure to properly prosecute a search for the murderers of Don R. Mellett, following his assassination here last July, Sergeant of Detectives Daniel Von Gunten has been suspended from the Canton Police Department for a period of 30 days, by Chief of Police J. H. Jaggs Wise. The chief announced that charges will be filed with a view toward permanent dismissal of the detective sergeant.

Von Gunten was the sergeant in charge of police on the night of the Mellett murder, and testimony given at the Streitenberger trial showed that police sirens and warnings lights had been flashed for a period of 22 minutes before Von Gunten reported in to headquarters to ascertain the trouble, despite the fact that his duties should have taken him to the immediate vicinity of the signals, twice.

Similar testimony was introduced at the hearing of former Chief of Police S. A. Lengel, ousted on similar charges.

DRIVER TAKES FLAMING TRUCK TO FIRE STATION

Cool-Headed Operator Steers Car Through Alleys; Slight Damage Reported

Having the fire brought to them instead of them going to the fire is a change being considered by firemen at Central Fire Station. Instead of leaving their comfortable chairs and dashing madly away to put out some consuming conflagration, the boys may now wait calmly until the fire is brought to them for the proper treatment.

The change was suggested by a driver of a light truck belonging to Rhulman & Smith, manufacturers of potato chips, who, while driving on S. Main-st yesterday afternoon discovered his truck to be on fire. Taking a short cut through an alley, the driver of the truck drove his machine up in front of the central station where the blaze was put out with chemicals with practically no damage.

OUSTER REFUSED.

Suit Instituted Against I. C. & E. Ry. By Bellefontains on Paving Action

Columbus, May 18—The Ohio Supreme Court today denied the application for a writ in quo warranto to oust the Indiana, Columbus & Eastern Traction Co. and to forfeit its franchises at Bellefontaine.

The suit was instituted some months ago by the state on relation of C. C. Crabbe, then attorney general of Ohio, as a result of the alleged failure of the company to comply with a Bellefontaine municipal ordinance providing for paving between the company's tracks and for a distance of 18 inches outside the tracks on Main-st, Bellefontaine.

The federal district court at Toledo, it was stated appointed a receiver for the company, whose franchise will expire within a few years.

The supreme court, it was stated, upheld the action of the U. S. District Court in refusing a permit receiver's certificates to be sold to secure funds for paving with brick, or cement. The federal court, it was said authorized paving with Tarvia-treated surface.

CAN GET DAMAGES

Dogs Do Not Have To Be Listed for Taxes To Recover

Columbus, May 18—Owners of dogs may recover damages when the canines are killed, even though the dogs are not listed for taxation.

This ruling of the Lucas County courts was upheld today by the state supreme court which affirmed a judgment of the Lucas County Common Pleas Court ordering Fred Hill, of that County, to pay Ray Micham $75 as damages for alleged wrongful killing of Micham's dog.

Counsel for Hill sought to have the damage award reversed by contending that Micham's dog had not been listed for taxation and did not wear a license tag.

Micham's attorneys explained that the dog was bought in the fall and was killed before Micham had opportunity to list the canine for taxation.

ROAD WORK BIDS WILL BE OPENED HERE THURSDAY

Improvements Involve $87,681.73; Final Hearing on Ritzler Ditch Set

Bids on three road improvements, estimated to cost $87,681.73 are to be opened and final hearing on the Ritzler ditch, planned for construction in Green Camp Township, will be held at Thursday afternoon's session of the board of county commissioners.

The road projects are the largest proposed thus far in connection with this year's program in Marion County. They were authorized recently by the commissioners and at the same time arrangements were made for surface treatment of the county's entire improved road system, about 81 miles in extent. Contracts for the surface treatment, to be awarded when bids are opened next Monday afternoon. The cost of this work is estimated at $35,000.

List of Roads

The roads on which bids will be received Thursday afternoon are:

A 2.88 mile section of the Mt. Olive-Agosta rd in Green Camp and Bowling Green Townships, estimated to cost $34,484.20.

The Winnemac rd in Bowling Green Township, 3.42 miles, estimated cost $35,149.60.

The Marseilles-Galion rd in Grand Prairie Township, 2.15 miles, estimated cost $18,027.93.

Plans for all three projects provide for waterbound macadam roadways, 11 feet in width.

Contracts for other road improvements will probably be let later but will probably be smaller than those to be awarded Thursday. The commissioners decided to start the year's work with these three, which are regarded as the most urgently needed.

Work Authorized

Construction of the Ritzler ditch was authorized some time ago by the board but proceedings were held up when some of the land owners asked that a branch be connected with the main ditch. The hearing Thursday was set for the purpose of taking final action on assessments.

The ditch hearing will be held at 1 o'clock and bids on the road work will be opened at 2 o'clock.

A building permit was issued by City Clerk Keller yesterday to John Lenz, 527 W. Columbia-st who will build a garage to cost approximately $600. A permit was also issued to Lelia Pettinger, 412 S. Vine-st who will build a rear porch to cost $10.

WATERS COVER 7,000 SQUARE MILES OF LAND

Converging of Flood Brings Unbroken Sea 200 Miles Long

Baton Rouge, May 18—The brawling flood waters of the Mississippi joined today with the Atchafalaya backwater pushing northward from the Grand lake to complete the formation of a great inland sea blanketing 7,000 square miles of central Louisiana from the Arkansas border to the Gulf of Mexico.

With the converging of the Bayou Des Glaises waters from the north and the Atchafalaya basin water backing up through Iberville and St. Martin Parishes the state's flooded area became an unbroken sea more than 200 miles long. Only two west bank parishes within 50 miles of the Mississippi have been spared.

They are Pointe Coupe and West Baton Rouge. Both now are menaced by danger spots in the Atchafalaya levees at Woodside and McCres, and in the Mississippi dikes at Morganzea.

New Warnings Issued

So rapid is the southward sweep of the devastating flood that new evacuation warnings were issued today by State Relief Dictator John M. Parker for new sections of St. Martin, St. Mary, Iberville and Assumption Parishes, where it is now feared that the overflow from Grand lake will flood lands hitherto deemed secure.

More than 4,000 refugees from Avoyelles, A. Lamory and Evangeline Parishes have arrived in Red Cross camps at Alexandria, Opelousas and Baton Rouge during the last 24 hours, bringing to more than 10,000 the number of homeless brought to concentration centers since the opening of the Bayou Des Glaises levees last Friday.

As the last exiles from the bayou region were carried to safety today, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, his headquarters temporarily established on the flagship of the coast guard fleet in the Old River, directed the shifting of the rescue base from that region to Baton Rouge.

Guages Remain Same

While the inland flood waters roll southward over southern Louisiana, the main channel guages of the Mississippi remain virtually stationary, between Natchez and the gulf. Weather bureau bulletins for three days have predicted a rise of from two to four inches daily in this stretch of river. The steady stand of the guages indicates to army engineers that the force of the high levee current is so great that the river has made a new channel temporarily through west bank crevasses north of Natchez. This condition, they believe, will greatly relieve pressure on the east bank levees of the Mississippi below Angola.

Melville, a village of 1,500 population, is completely under water. Every street was flooded within six hours yesterday, directly from the gap in the Atchafalaya levee, and today the Tensa basin waters rolled down from the north to spread new layers of disaster upon the submerged village.

Approximately 600 residents who failed to heed evacuation warnings from relief headquarters were carried off by the rescue fleet without the loss of a single life, said wireless reports today to Parker. Every public utility plant in the village is under from 10 to 18 feet of water. Wire communication has been wiped out. Railroads and automobile highways are closed.

ONE CHARGE AGAINST YOUTH IS DISMISSED

Raymond Needles Now Being Held on Concealed Weapon Complaint

A charge of buying a stolen automobile which had been placed against Raymond Needles, arrested last week in connection with the theft of two automobiles, was dismissed this morning by Judge Martin in municipal court upon advise of Police Prosecutor Patton. Needles is now being held in the county jail under a $1,500 bond on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

A hearing on the automobile charge to which Needles pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Mayor Hazen, Monday, was scheduled to be heard before Judge Martin today. The police prosecutor said that a charge to take the place of that dismissed this morning would be filed when Needles appears before the grand jury today.

Needles with Pearl McAdams, was arrested last week on suspicion when both were found carrying revolvers and were held when they admitted stealing a Chevrolet sedan belonging to Safety Director Strayer and a Moon touring car belonging in Chicago. McAdams pleaded guilty to charges of automobile stealing and carrying concealed weapons while Needles pleaded guilty only to the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT SCHAFFNER'S

It is not "Luck"—

Should you ever hear a friend say "I always seem to have bad luck when I buy furniture," you might ask her: "Did you shop around before you bought?" The chances are that invariably the answer will be "No."

The product of quality manufacturers is imitated, and always will be. Copied designs look all right when you see them in the store. What is inside—the workmanship and material—the layman knows little about. "Conscience" does not bother some salesmen and some store owners.

There is only one answer: When you buy furniture look around!

All we ask is that when you get through looking elsewhere try Schaffner's. Play safe. Even if you do not buy here you will thank us for the experience you gained.

HARDIN COUNTY ONION MARSHES HIT BY WINDS

Sectional Damage Results from First Real "Blow;" Crop Outlook Bright

Kenton,, May 18—A close check-up just completed indicates that the first real high winds of the year, which struck several days ago, did considerable over the vast Scioto marsh onion lands of Hardin County. However the loss is not comparable to the early "blows" of the past two years when the onion crop was practically wiped out.

Huge clouds of the dry, powdered black soil were blown for miles as the high winds swept over the open marsh spaces during the wind storm and growers were fearful lest the newly planted onions would be torn from the grounds.

A check-up later showed that only in spots did the wind do any damage. Raisers are now making preparations to re-disc and resow these damaged stretches.

Conditions Favorable

Aside from the one storm, weather conditions for onion growing has been ideal and growers are confident that the vast acreage already sown will produce a record crop, barring frosts, repeated "blows," or incessant rains.

Kentuckians who annually migrate into Hardin County to work in the onion fields, are beginning to arrive in large numbers and in some localities difficulty is being experienced in finding housing facilities to accommodate them.

During the past two seasons many of the workers who came into the county found themselves without work and almost destitute when a large percentage of the crop failed. In some instances the county was forced to grant expenditures to enable them to get back home.

Outstanding Honor Students of All Schools at Kenton Receive Medals and Awards

Ceremonies Accompany Presentation of W. W. Durbin, Rosemary and Frank X. Mudd Prizes to Pupils of Public and Parochial Institutions

Kenton, May 18—Outstanding honor students of Kenton public and parochial schools were formally presented with medals and awards Tuesday night at public services attended by more than 500 persons.

Recipients of the awards were selected by the various school heads upon the basis of scholastic standing, school activities, courtesy and behavior and efficiency.

Winners in the annual intelligence test given by W. W. Durbin, manufacturer, with the view of encouraging a general and wide knowledge of current affairs, locally and abroad, of outstanding events in history and of government and its affairs, were also given awards during the public service held in the high school auditorium.

Annual Custom

The custom of annually naming honor students and of extending public recognition, was inaugurated several years ago by the Chamber of Commerce here upon the suggestion of Frank X. Mudd, president of the Live Poultry Transit Co., Chicago, and the New City Car Co., Kenton.

Since the first program Mr. Mudd has co-operated in the plan and in addition to the chamber of commerce medals he and his daughter, Rosemary, have presented individual medals.

Gerald Garver, a senior, was designated the outstanding student in the Kenton high school, while Norman Stafford and Leo Staudenheimer were picked as the best all around students of the grammar and parochial schools, respectively. The Frank X. Mudd medals were given Garver and Staudenheimer while a private medal was presented Stafford.

Miss Rosemary Mudd presented her medal to Miss Pauline Wilson of the parochial school, for attending mass each morning when at school.

Warren Is Speaker

Professor Fred H. Warren, superintendent of the Fostoria schools was the principal speaker during the presentation ceremonies last night, while James H. Allen, Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, was in charge of the awarding of the medals. A brief concert was given by the high school band of 65 pieces under the direction of L. E. Willes, and piano and solo numbers were given by Norma Duncan, Marjorie Sams, Alma Sherman, Elizabeth Pfeiffer, Ruth White and Rollo Frame.

The Chamber of Commerce medals were awarded as follows:

Most polite pupils in grade schools: East school, Gretchen Raudenschield; West, James Oliver Collins; North, Jeanne Marjorie Roof; Espy, Dorothy Higgins; Grammar, Vivian White.

High school "A" students: Rosemary Dempster, Freshman; Marion Latimer and Geraldine Mitchell, sophomores; Wayne Powell and Harry Lehman, Juniors, and Helen Woodard, Senior.

Most proficient student in vocational agriculture department, Floyd Williams; most proficient in commercial department, Helen Woodard.

Outstanding student of commerce in parochial school, Kathryn Schwartz.

Straight "A" parochial students: Jeannette Schwartz, Walter Johnson, Robert Gelhaus, Robert Prater and Francis Dick, Sophomores; Agnes Dowd and Theodore Mentzer, Juniors.

Courtesy medal for parochial school, Helene Ziegler.

Winners of the Durbin intelligence test: Russell Rohr, Agnes Dowd, Robert Gelhaus, Walter Johnson, Frances Bernard, Thomas Dowd, Lucille Lynch, Jeannette Schwartz and Charles Friedel in the parochial school; John Gordon Ditman and Frank Berlien, high school, and Eugene McNeill and Norman Stafford, Grammar school.

REPRESENTATIVE SPEAKS BEFORE GALION CLUB

C. F. Else Reviews Activities at Ohio Assembly for Kiwanians

Galion, May 18—Kiwanians had as their speaker at their regular weekly luncheon yesterday, C. F. Else, state representative, of this city, who gave an address on the assembly. Bills that were passed during the session were reviewed and Mr. Else expressed his opinions on various important issues. The Galion congressman secured for Charles Woolensnider, local boy, a position as page and bill clerk in the house and members of the club were much interested and pleased to hear of the success which he has made.

Another guest of the club was L. A. Boulay of Columbus who was formerly state director of highways. When introduced Boulay responded with brief but interesting remarks.

Plans were made for a joint meeting with the Rotary and Better Galion Clubs at which time Robert Guinther, formerly of this city, will be the principal speaker. May 27 is the date set for this affair.

TOWNSHIP ASKS ADMITTANCE TO CITY DISTRICT

Citizens To Ask Upper Sandusky Board To Reconsider Decision

Upper Sandusky, May 18—A meeting of citizens and taxpayers of Upper Sandusky was held at the Court House Monday night to discuss the Crane Township school proposition. A motion was made and passed for a committee to be appointed to canvass the town with a petition asking that Crane Township be admitted into the Upper Sandusky school district.

Whether it would be more profitable and less expense for Crane Township to come into the city's schools or build and maintain a separate centralized school is the question which has been under discussion here for some time. Some time ago residents of Crane township presented a petition to the county board of education asking to have their territory transferred into the Upper Sandusky school district for taxation and school purposes. The county board approved and presented the matter to the Upper Sandusky board of education, who unanimously disapproved the proposal.

The city board doubts whether it has the facilities to care for the added number of pupils.

At the present time, Crane township high school pupils are attending Upper Sandusky High School and paying tuition.

At the meeting, L. M. Bowers presided as chairman, and presented the proposition. Myron Sterner, of Crane township presented the case to the citizens as Crane Township residents see it and stated it would more beneficial to all as a whole for them to come into Upper than to operate another school.

When a vote was taken all but one voted that a signed petition be submitted to the Upper Sandusky board of education asking that it reconsider its step in the matter, and consider including Crane Towaship in the city district.

BUCYRUS COUNCILMEN PASS TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

Overhead "Stop" Lights To Be Placed at Principal Intersections

Bucyrus, May 18—The revised traffic ordinance, providing for the installation of five traffic control lights and the designation of main "stop" streets, was passed by the city council at its regular meeting last night. The ordinance provides for the installation of traffic control lights on S. Sandusky-av at the intersection of Warren, Rensselaer, and Mary-sts and at the north and south sides of the public square. The controls will be of the overhead type. The lights will by synchronized, so that traffic may more expeditiously.

The main thoroughfares of the city are designated stop streets and fines for failure to observe stopping regulations were authorized by the ordinance. The principal stop streets are: Sandusky-av, Mansfield-st, Oakwood-av, and Poplar-st. Several "stop-street" corners were established at different points over the city notably Plymouth at Lane and Lane at E. Warren.

CONTEST CORFMAN WILL IN COURT PROCEEDING

Clifford E. Baum Named Defendant in Suit Filed at Upper Sandusky

Upper Sandusky, May 18—Bruce C. Corfman, Howard P. Corfman and Rose Delaplane have filed suit in common pleas court against Clifford E. Baum to contest the will of Walter F. Corfman, deceased. They have filed a second suit asking that the conveyance of certain property in Tymochtee Township from Walter F. Corfman, deceased to the defendant, Clifford E. Baum be adjudged null and void and set aside by the Court.

Wants Fence Changed

Gottlieb Walter has brought suit in common pleas court against Harry Hufford and Christina Hufford asking for $100 judgment for the delivery of the possession of certain property in Tymochtee Township. It is also asked in the petition that the defendants be ordered to remove a certain fence from off the premises of the plaintiff and place the same on the old established boundary line.

Youth Jumps to Rescue of Aged Man in Train's Path

BUCYRUS, May 18—Steve Petroff, Bulgarian born American, who seven years ago could not speak a word of English, today is enjoying life at that high plane that is the exclusive treasure of heroes.

Due homage, though belated, is being paid to Petroff by his countless friends and acquaintances made during his residence here and attendance at Bucyrus high school, for his valiant act in saving Valentine Blaiser, 60, from death or at least serious injury, while the two were working along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks here a week ago.

Facts concerning the incident were unknown for several days and Petroff's part was carefully guarded by himself.

As members of a Pennsy section crew, Petroff and Blaiser were working in a sewer ditch between the railroad tracks. An approaching freight warned them of their danger and they made for safety. Blaiser, slower than Petroff because of his age, was directly in the path of the oncoming locomotive when the younger man turned and with a dying leap re-crossed the danger zone dragging Blaiser with him to safety.

FINDS OLD HOME EMPTY ON RETURN TO IBERIA

Many Changes Are Wrought During Youth's Three Years' Service

Iberia, May 18—Don McNeal, an Iberia boy, after an absence of three years, returned to his old home, Friday, to find the home without any one living in it and not one of the family living here.

McNeal has been in the employment of the government and stationed at Honolulu in the Hawaiian Islands, for the last three years. He left here in March, 1924. He has been employed as a weather forecaster. He returned to Washington, D. C. on a government steamer. After a month's vacation he will locate in New Jersey.

During his absence, his father and mother both died. Four brothers are living, but none in the old home town. Harley, a lawyer, lives in Cleveland; Neal, a veterinarian, lives in Ausonia; William is a teacher in a military school in Minnesota, and Ray is a traveling salesman, living in Lansing, Mich.

Mr. McNeal left Monday to visit friends in Akron.

$1,293 Subscribed To Flood Relief Fund

Galion, May 18—Galion has again gone over the top with the flood relief quota and has now sent the sum of $1,293 to Red Cross headquarters. The first quota was oversubscribed and $709.50 given for the benefit of flood sufferers. Scarcely a week ago the second appeal was made and the remainder of the amount promptly subscribed. The fact that no canvass or solicitation was necessary in raising the money is proof of the interest and generosity of Galion citizens.

AGED BUCYRUS WOMAN HEART DISEASE VICTIM

Bucyrus, May 18—Funral services for Mrs. Mary Kocher, 78, whose death occurred very suddenly yesterday, will be held Thursday at 1 o'clock from the home of George Kocher, her son.

Reverend Lama and Rev. William Weiler will officiate. Burial will be made at Oakwood cemetery. Death was due to heart trouble.

Mrs. Kocher left three daughters; Mrs. Cora Lahman, Mrs. Clara Gasser, of Monroe County, and Lydia at home and three sons, George, Whetstone township, at whose home she died, Reuben, Bucyrus Township, and Charles, Liberty Township. She leaves 22 grandchildren.

OVER 100 WOMEN ATTEND MEET AT MARYSVILLE

District Legion Auxiliary Gathering Held at K. of P. Lodge Rooms

Marysville, May 18—Over 100 women of the American Legion Auxiliary were in attendance at the district meeting held in Marysville Tuesday. The business section of the town extended its welcome to the visitors by a display of flags which lined both sides of the streets.

The meeting was an all-day affair and was held at the K. of P. lodge rooms. The gathering was called to order at 9 o'clock in the morning and after the opening session there was a business meeting. The welcome address was given by Miss Mable Thrall of Marysville, who is president of the local chapter.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Emma Knappenberger, of Marion, the district secretary. A very interesting address was given by Mrs. Richard Frogley, the department president, and a number of short addresses were given by other officers and members. The local chapter served the dinner at the noon hour at the Methodist Church.

Grey; prayer service for missionaries by Miss Marguerite Osborn; special music and roll call. Afterward a lunch was served by Mrs. William Humphreys, Mrs. Walter J. Humphreys, Miss Margaret Humphreys, Mrs. Clarence Lawrence, Mrs. Edwin Irwin and Mrs. Dan Jones.

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS PLAY AT CARDINGTON

Seniors' Annual Production, "I Thank You," Proves Very Successful

Cardington, May 18 — A large and appreciative audience witnessed the production "I Thank You" staged by the senior class at the school auditorium last night. Action of the entire play takes place in the rectory of St. Mark's parish in Dedham, Conn., and the atmosphere was that of the small New England community. In the opening act, the parishioners are openly shocked at the so-called extravagances of the rector's (Frank Snapp) niece, Diane (Dorothy Hodge) who has come to make her home with him after having been educated in France. Her Paris frocks and her Paris ways give a severe jolt to the state of mind of Hannah, the rector's housekeeper (Ruth Campbell) and that of the village gossip, Betsy Blodgett (Ruth Furstenberger). Mrs. Morton Jones (Iris Maxwell) the wife of the senior warden and who is very desirous of Diane's friendship until she discovers her own son, Monte's, interest in the girl, manages to create by means of a cleverly manipulated plot, a scandal involving Diane and a young millionaire Kenneth Jameison (Kenneth Jones) whose interest she wishes to center on her own daughter Gladys (Martha Kramer). Through Diane's influence the rector discharges his housekeeper and turns the management of his household over to Diane who insists that they shall accept no more donations from the parishioners, thus making, by their economical way of living, the parish ashamed of the extremely low salary the rector is receiving. When the buzz of the scandal is at its highest and the rector is about to be forced to resign his parish, the timely arrival of Kenneth's father, Cornelius Jameison (Robert Snider) suddenly changes things. The minister is given a chance to be a real human being with the power of doing good in the community, rather than a mere "thank you" man. The vestrymen who represent in the play the vain self-pride and bigotry of such a community are the senior warden Morton Jones (Ellis Campbell), the clerk, Abner Norton (Noah Ault), Dr. Andrew Cobb (Charles Hepner), Judge Hasbrouck (Wilbur Schorr), Leonard Higginbotham (Merril Gates), and Hiram Sweet (Ralph Heimlich). Contributing much to the unraveling of the plot and the humor of the play is Andy Beardsley (Kenneth Caris) a "town character" whose undying faith and affection the rector has gained by his kindness on certain occasions and who later attaches himself to him in the nature of a "household pet." Also instrumental in the success of the play is the sexton, Joseph Willitts (Merril Klingel), and the butler, Griggs (Merril Klingel). The play was written by Winchell Smith and Tom Cushing, and was produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra.

BANS PUBLISHED

Carey, May 18—Bans for the marriage of Miss Beatrice Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers and Mr. Maurice Gaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gaster of north of Carey were published Sunday for the first time at Our Lady of Consolation Church.

A Double Barrelled Business

WOOL to sell and mutton to sell make sheep growing a double barrelled business. If you are shooting at a better market for wool, the Ohio Wool Pool is the powder that brings down the best returns year after year. This pool, managed by the Ohio Wool Growers Co-operative Association, has for nine years paid growers a higher average price than local markets. More than that, it has raised the local price by furnishing competition and has prevented a break in prices by holding members' wool until the market called for it.

If you believe these accomplishments are worth while and you want to be sure of a firm, dependable market, pool your wool. Call the Farm Bureau Office for information about how the pool is handled and how it helps the sheep business.

League No. 2.

After allowing four hits and as many runs in the first inning, C. Burke, on the mound for the Presbys, held his opponents to three scattered hits and no tallies during the remainder of the fray while his teammates gradually climbed within reach of the Epworth crew. The Presbyterians scored one in the third, one in the fourth, one in the sixth, and then the two that won the game in the seventh and final stanza.

Presbyterian No. 2 received four hits while the Trinity Baptists connected for only two, but the Baptists won the game 4 to 0 on the Huber diamond last night. Jones pitched for the Baptists with Chenoweth on the receiving end. Sage, Walker, and Anderson were the batteries for the Presbyterians.

Although the Presbys received four hits not a man got farther than second base.

With the score tied at four all at the end of fourth inning, the First Reforms stepped out in the next two frames to score six runs and win the first game of the season from United Brethren. The contest was staged on Marion Steam Shovel diamond No. 2. Weckmueller and O. Williams were the winning batteries. Zuspan pitched for the United Brethren.

And, last but not least, the Lutherans ran wild against Calvary No. 2, lanched hits off Kimmel, and won the game 8 to 0. Kaufenberger, on the mound for the Lutherans, will prove one of the best pitchers in the league if he keeps up the record made last night. He allowed only two hits.

Epworth Teams Battle to Tie in Eighth; Calvary Beats Presbyterian Nine

Wesley M. E. Has Little Trouble with Central Christians; St. Mary's Trims Forest Lawn; Epworth Game Called on Account of Darkness

LEAGUE NO. 1

Calvary No. 1 6—Presbyterian No. 1, 5.

Epworth No. 1, 4—Epworth Seniors, 4 (called in eighth, darkness).

St. Mary's 9—Forest Lawn 0.

Wesley M. E. 16—Central Christian 3.

WHILE Epworth No. 1 and Epworth Seniors were battling to a 4 to 4 tie, Calvary No. 1, St. Mary's, and Wesley M. E. were turning in victories last night in the first series of recreational ball games in Church League No. 1. The Epworth contest was called at the end of the eighth because of darkness.

Presbyterian No. 1, Forest Lawn and Central Christians were victims of the winners respectively. The two first games named were walkaways but the Calvary-Presbyterian clash was a hot battle.

With the score standing 6 to 3 against them, the Presbyterian staged a rally in the first of the seventh and came within one tally of tieing the count. The last Presbyterian out of that inning was played under protest, but Calvary won the game and the protest was not carried. Here's how it happened:

T. Cunningham hit safely and drew up at second when N. Cunningham reached first on an error by Hawkins. Each runner advanced a base on Metz's sacrifice. T. Cunningham scored as Verberg knocked out a sacrifice fly to Lill. N. Cunningham crossed the plate for the fifth run when Doug Torrence hit safely.

Verberg Out?

Although Verberg was declared out when his fly was caught by Lill, he continued to run the bases, evidently unnoticed by the Calvary players. Verberg was caught as he tried to take home on Torrence's hit, making the third out. However, since he had been declared out once during the inning, Presbyterians held that the out at home did not count. After much protest, Calvary consented to another out and Minard flied out to Midkiff in centerfield.

Plans may be made to start the next Epworth No. 1-Epworth Senior game at 5:30 in order to be sure of finishing the contest after the exhibition last night, which was called at the end of the eighth inning because of darkness with the score tied at four all.

Pitchers' Duel

It was a pitchers' duel from start to finish and had each moundsman been well supported in the field the tally probably would have been changed at the end of the game. Rice was in the box for the Epworth Seniors and Burson pitched for Epworth No. 1. Rice allowed eight hits and no walks. Burson yielded seven hits and walked four men. Rice struck out three while Burson had eight strikeouts to his credit.

Epworth No. 1 scored its four runs in the fifth inning when five hits and an error were recorded against the Seniors. With the exception of that inning, Rice pitched great ball. Epworth Seniors received one hit in the third frame but scored two runs when Roseberry on first became wild and tried to throw the ball through a window of Central Junior High when he aimed at his third baseman. A walk and two hits in the sixth accounted for the other two runs for the Seniors.

Lopsided Scores

The other two games in the first league resulted in lopsided scores.

Wesley M. E. scored 12 runs in the first inning of its game against Central Christians and then added four more as the contest progressed. Christians scored three in the fourth but were unable to get any more. The final score was 16 to 3.

St. Mary's had little trouble with Forest Lawn. Scoring five runs in the first inning, the St. Mary's crew easily held its opponents scoreless during the remaining innings and incidentally counted two more in the second frame and another counle in the fourth. Frericks was the winning pitcher.

CUBS AND BRAVES STAGE MARATHON

New York, May 18—All existing records for consecutive extra-inning games had been broken today by the Chicago Cubs and the Boston Braves. After passing out the Braves on Saturday in an 18-inning marathon, the Cubs came back strong yesterday after a two-day rest and beat the leaguesters again, 4 to 3, in a 22-inning struggle.

Matters have now reached a stage where a Boston fan starting for the ball park tells the wife and kids a sad goodbye and takes along a pack mule loaded with provisions.

Bob Smith, converted outfielder, held the Cubs scoreless yesterday from the fifth until the final inning, when Gordon's single broke up the game. Joe Cate used three pitchers.

INTERMEDIATES DEFEAT TIGERS IN BALL GAME

The Intermediate recreational ball team of Fifth Memorial Baptist Sunday School last night defeated the Tigers, 18 to 9. The two teams will again meet Thursday night.

BABE RUTH AGAIN IN CIRCUIT CLOUT LEAD

Babe Ruth took the lead in the home run marathon by whacking his ninth homer as the Yankees beat Detroit again, 9 to 2. Pennock and Collins, who had each won four games and lost none, did the throwing. The Yanks have won six straight and lead the White Sox by four games.

Seniors Win Over Vernon Heights in Eighth Inning

THE Seniors last night kept on the heels of the leading Faculty team in the high school recreational ball league by trimming Vernon Heights 7 to 6, in a postponed game at Central Junior High.

Central Junior defeated the Harding High Juniors 7 to 5 in a regularly scheduled league contest.

The Senior Vernon battle went eight innings before the roper concession could triumph over the fighting Vernon Heights crew. Evans and Kochenberger were the winning batteries with Fuller and Akron doing the work for Vernon.

Evans pitched for the Juniors with Cass on the receiving end. Hinklin and Price took turns on the Central mound with Zeis doing the catching.

The scheduled games for tonight have been postponed because of rain. They will be played later in the week.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET AT MEEKER TONIGHT

Commencement Activities Scattered Over Period of Two Weeks

Mosher, May 18 — Commencement events of Montgomery Rural High School will be scattered over two weeks this year, according to an announcement made by B. A. Moore, principal of the school.

Events will begin tonight with the Junior-Senior banquet.

Friday, May 20, is the date of the class play, "Fair Weather Friends." Final rehearsals are now in progress.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached at the school auditorium, Sunday, May 22, by Rev. J. W. Clutter, of LaRue. He will be assisted by Rev. J. W. Plots of Agosta. Special music will be furnished by the high school girls' glee club.

Annual commencement exercises will be held Wednesday, May 25. The program will consist of music and orations by the class assisted by talent from the junior class. The address will be delivered by Dr. C. H. Freeman, Ohio Northern University.

Eighth grade commencement will be held Thursday, May 26. H. L. Miller, superintendent of Morral Schools, is slated to make the address.

Friday, May 27, will be turned over to field sports, a big dinner and a short program in the afternoon.

Festivities will be concluded with the Alumni Reception and Banquet, Saturday, May 28.

EDISON HIGH VICTORIOUS OVER MT. GILEAD TEAM

Mt. Gilead, May 18 — Edison High school won its second baseball game of the season, when Mt. Gilead took a spanking at the Edison grounds yesterday afternoon by an 8 to 5 score. The purple was unable to hit the offerings of Brooks, who tossed them over for Edison. Logan received ragged support. W. Crayne, Liggett and Tucker leading in the errors.

In the fourth inning the Edison boys took three hits and Mt. Gilead gave them enough errors to score six runs.

The disastrous baseball season will be brought to a close here Friday afternoon when Loudenville appears on the local diamond.

CAREY SENIORS PRESENT ANNUAL CLASS PLAY

Carey, May 18—The following seniors of Carey High presented the class play, "You and I" at high school auditorium last night. Miss Mamie Lanker, Miss Pauline Stiner and Miss Ruth Ewing, Donald Kurtz, Leslie Newcomer, Clayton Shuman and Edward Feek. The high school orchestra furnished music.

Fire - fighter extraordinary, whose task it was to save lives in as casual manner as other men audit books. Until the one big fire in a Fifth Avenue apartment house, where he found his own daughter. A scene of red, gripping excitement that will tear into your heart and thrill you with unbounded drama.

The STILL ALARM
COMEDY WEEKLY
The most marvelous fire melodrama ever screened! Thrilling? Why, say! You can hear the shrieks of the sirens—the clang and clamour of the fire bells—imploring cries of stricken people, trapped in that inferno of fire and flame—the shouts of the fire chiefs—the smoke and flying debris. Dozens of daredevil fire-eaters perform miracles of heroism in the face of death. It pulses with romance and life. The big heart throb of the season teeming with action and suspense.

Then Mother Mouse bent
when she raised her head

to a place of safety.

"Now, who would ever guess that a mouse would carry her babies in her mouth just like a cat!" exclaimed Peter.

The boy had been so interested in watching her that he had forgotten all about Fox. The fellow couldn't be far away.

"Hurry, hurry, Mother Mouse," called he, in a voice that he tried to keep low. "Fox is coming; he is at the next clump." Mother Mouse shot by him almost before the warning had been given.

"Eeee!" squeaked she and "Eeee!" squealed the baby, but by this time poor Mother Mouse was so tired and so feared that she tripped on the rough ground and dropped her precious burden.

"Woof! Woof!" barked Fox right at the boy's very ear, and at the sound Mother Mouse gathered all her courage in one last brave effort. Snatching her baby, she raced out of sight at the very moment that Cutie Fox poked his nose into the grass clump.

There is a kind of feminine nature that regards all opposition as persecution.

BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE IS MARKET SENSATION

Price Jumps of Five to 15 Points Recorded on Exchange

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, strong; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, firm; foreign bonds, firm; call money, 4½ per cent; grain, strong; copper, firm; oil, weak; sugar, firm; pig iron, steady; forsugar, firm; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, May 18—Under the leadership of the speculative favorites in the railroad, equipment and specialty stocks, prices moved up sharply in active trading on the big board today. Powerful pools and professional traders contended for the comparatively smaller floating supply of Baldwin Locomotive, Commercial Solvents, Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, Colorado & Southern, etc., and prices jumped five to fifteen points.

Baldwin furnished the chief sensation of the day. The exceptionally small capitalization of this company, with only 200,000 shares outstanding and with the market supply probably less than 50,000, makes the stock admirably suited to pool operations. Should any of the reported offers for the Baldwin's valuable Philadelphia property be accepted the stock would be worth much more than current quotations. But the officials have denied any such intention, and meanwhile the periodic rounding up of the shorts in the stock makes a rich harvest for the bulls. At 214 1-2 Baldwin made a new gain of 8 points.

Market action of General Motors was also interesting, in view of the reports that bullish pools would force the price of the stock to above 200. General Motors reached 199 around noon, a point above its best previous price, but at that level an enormous volume of selling orders poured into the market, and the advance was temporarily halted.

Corporation heads at the annual meetings of Sinclair Consolidated, Woolworth and other well known corporations made encouraging comments on current business conditions and were optimistic over future prospects. Sinclair reminded stockholders that conditions in the oil industry have often changed for the better in a very short time, and suggested that history might repeat before the end of 1927. But for the break in oil prices he said, the company might have been able to resume dividend payments on the common stock.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

The continued cool, wet weather is being felt in local markets in the seriously crippling of sales as well as making it a difficult matter to obtain green vegetables. New cabbage and old potatoes are causing market men the most worry. The former is becoming scarce and is now being quoted at 12 cents while old potatoes of a good quality are being quoted as high as 75 cents a peck.

Michigan potatoes, which are regarded the best at this time of year, are scarce and high, so high, in fact, that local dealers are refusing to handle them. No change in the prices of other green vegetables was the report of dealers this morning.

Strawberries are scarce and are being quoted at 25 and 30 cents. The 25 cent variety is expected to disappear with the closing out of the present stock. Dealers said this morning they were unable to account for the sudden shortage in the berry market as all conditions point to a large crop of Kentucky berries.

No change in prices with a good demand was the report of local meat dealers this morning

Prices on various products are as follows:

Long Range Guns on Coast Bark Defiance as "Enemy" Ships Appear on Horizon

Black Fleet Boats Sighted Off Westport Harbor, Mass., and New London, Conn.; Believe Maneuver Feints Are Being Employed

BULLETIN

Fort Adams, Newport, R. I., May 18—The destroyer Lawrence of the "blue" force defending the coast of New England from a hostile "black" armada engaged the enemy this afternoon, firing six torpedoes at the big airplane carrier, Langley, from a range of 8,000 yards. Two of the shots struck the Langley, it was estimated.

Fort Adams, Newport, R. I.—The first shot in the bloodless war which has for its object the testing of the defense of the New England coast, has been fired. Part of the huge black fleet has been sighted 3 enemy warships have been seen at two widely separated points, in the vicinity of Westport Harbor, Mass., and near New London, Conn.

Fort Michie's big coast defense guns opened fire on the hostile ships for several minutes but received no reply.

Enemy Feints

The appearance of the enemy at those two far-flung points indicated to the blue command that the black fleet was feinting attacks at both places to divert attention from what may prove to be the main thrust directly at Narragansett Bay, in the vicinity of Westport, Mass., to open the way for a march upon Boston. If the invaders gained a foothold near New London, Conn., all of Long Island Sound and the city of New York would be menaced

Actual contact between the black and the blue seems imminent.

Concern was manifested by the blue leaders because of the fact that no word came from the blue scouting fleet that went to sea 36 hours ago for the purpose of sighting the enemy and reporting back their positions

Watchful Waiting

On land, a watchful waiting policy was adopted The five divisions of troops, the 97th drawn up in Connecticut, the 94th in Rhode Island, and the 76th, 26th and 43rd divisions in Massachusetts, all laid out in a fan like formation covering a distance of almost 300 miles were waiting for orders, their instructions depending upon this first move of the black fleet The three divisions in the center of this fan are furthest back from the coast and ready for speedy moving to any scene of action

Mines have been laid in Buzzards Bay on the theory that the black fleet will try to land troops in that vicinity with the intention of moving them on toward Boston

The war is not a competition simulating conditions likely to arise in actual warfare. It is a test, rather, of the land defense in this region and of the ability, with the aid of a weak scouting fleet and a minimum supply of airplanes, to beat off a surprise attack covering the landing of a hostile expeditionary force.

PAUL KELLY ON WITNESS STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

Dorothy Mackaye Denies Allegations of State by Answering Single Question

Los Angeles, May 18—The fist blows which Paul Kelly says he struck in self defense were to be recounted today as the young film actor prepared to take the witness stand at his trial for the knuckle murder of Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor.

With his life at stake, the screen hero was ready to defend the name of Raymond's widow, Dorothy Mackaye, stage actress, whose cause he says he championed, when he engaged in the fist fight which ended in her husband's death.

While Kelly relied upon his own story to save him from the gallows, and to clear the actress of accusations of an illicit love affair, his attorney counted upon the testimony of medical experts to show that Raymond died from natural causes, brought about by excessive drinking, and a weakened physical condition.

As a part of the medical defense Kelly's attorney, W. I. Gilbert has prepared a 1,500 word hypothetical question to be propounded at an array of expert witnesses, summoned to appear when the trial resumed today.

The defense opened yesterday when Miss Mackaye took the stand and in answer to a single question by Gilbert denied she had occupied the same room with Kelly on the nights which witnesses said she spent in his apartment. She was excused without cross-examination.

Dr. Walter J. Sullivan, under indictment with Miss Mackaye on charges of conspiring to conceal the facts of Raymond's death, testified that he found no evidence of an alleged subdural hemorrhage, when he attended the dying actor.

Perry Askom, who played with Raymond in his last musical comedy and described him as a good trouper, testified that he found the actor nursing a badly bruised and swollen face, when he visited him after the fatal fight.

Some family skeletons are padded beyond recognition.

DOZEN OR MORE INDICTMENTS ARE EXPECTED

Marion County Grand Jury Reconvenes; Stevens' Case To Be Considered

A dozen or more indictments are expected to be returned by the Marion county grand jury, which reconvened this morning after having adjourned following its opening session on May 9.

Most of the indictments are expected in connection with the cases of eight men arrested for illegal participation in farm robberies in Marion County during the last year.

The case of Howard A. Stevens, Marion attorney bound over on an embezzlement charge, will also be investigated. This case could not be acted upon at the first grand jury session, due to absence of several witnesses.

Expert Report Soon

The grand jurors will probably complete their work today and report tomorrow morning, court officials stated.

Six indictments were returned at the session last week, two against Mike Dye, negro held for a shooting and attempted hold up at the H. L. Goetting grocery on Lee-st, and four against Leslie J. West, alias John Walker of Prospect, accused of forgery.

Trial of criminal cases will start soon, according to plans of Judge Scofield, who expects to wind up all jury work before June 1.

Moon Case Hearing

All of yesterday afternoon's session of the common pleas court was taken up with a hearing of the receivership suit of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio against Edward Moon and others.

The hearing disclosed that there are 43 mortgages against 25 properties listed in Moon's name and the right of priority of these claims was established in the proceeding. A court entry listing the mortgages in their proper order will probably be filed tomorrow by Alfred Donithen, attorney for Charles E. Merkel, who was appointed receiver for Moon's affairs.

The mortgages total $82,000. There are other unsecured claims but it is not likely that any of these will be paid, the property value being insufficient.

The proceedings will culminate in sale of practically all of the property involved. More than a dozen local attorneys representing the various creditors attended the hearing yesterday.

Partition Decreed

An order of partition was issued by Judge Scofield today in the suit of Ida M. Rapp against William Gaskell and others brought to settle up the estate of the late Sarah E. Harvey, which consists of valuable farm and city properties.

In connection with the order, M. Waddell, John Mitchell and Frank Epley were appointed commissioners to handle the appraisal work.

J. D. Williamson was appointed guardian ad litem for Marion Harvey, 14, and William Gaskell, designated as an incompetent person, both of whom are heirs.

Appointment

Appointment of John W. Van Atta as executor of the will of Enos G. Van Atta was made today in Probate Court.

Appeal Planned

The divorce suit of William H. Oborn against Emma Oborn, which was dismissed by Judge Scofield following a hearing several days ago, is to be taken up to the Court of Appeals, Grant E. Mouser one of Oborn's attorney's, stated today.

Motion for a new trial, setting up five alleged errors in the common plea court ruling, was overruled yesterday by Judge Scofield.

The suit was the second brought in common pleas court as a result of the matrimonial difficulties of Mr. and Mrs. Oborn. The first suit was started more than a year ago with a petition filed by the wife and it was dismissed by former Common Pleas Judge Charles L. Justice.

Married in 1885

The couple were married in 1885 and lived for years in the southern part of Marion County, where Mr. Oborn is a prominent farmer. They have two grown children.

Judge Scofield dismissed Oborn's petition on the grounds that no additional evidence warranting a divorce decree has developed since Mrs. Oborn's suit was dismissed by former Judge Justice.

The motion for a new trial, overruled by Judge Scofield, was based on representations that the court erred in refusing to permit Oborn to introduce evidence to sustain his allegations, in sustaining the defendant's motion to dismiss the plaintiff's petition, in refusing to re-open the case to permit Oborn to submit evidence and also on the claim that the ruling was against the law and weight of the evidence.

J. W. Jacoby and Mouser, Young & Mouser are attorneys for Oborn and John H. Bartram represents Mrs. Oborn.

Desertion Charged

Gross neglect and desertion are cited by Oborn as his grounds for divorce. In her answer, Mrs. Oborn denies all allegations and says that she was forced into a separation and to seek shelter with a son living in Los Angeles, Cal.

Granted Divorce

A divorce decree was granted Harry D. Diller and alimony and property allowances amounting to approximately $3,000 went to his wife, Myrtle B. Diller, when their suit was decided in common pleas court yesterday afternoon by Judge Scofield.

The suit was heard last Thursday, when four other divorce actions also came up for hearing and were decided. Decrees were granted in these four suits but decision in the Diller case was delayed pending a settlement of property rights.

Under terms of the decree, Mrs. Diller is to be given possession of their residence property, valued at $2,000 and in addition will receive $1,000 alimony, $200 to be paid in cash and the remainder in 80 installments of $10 each.

Mrs. Diller will have custody of their nine-year-old daughter 10 months of each year and the husband two months. He is to pay $7 a week for support of the child during the time that she is with her mother.

Mrs. Diller relinquishes her claim to any rights in the estate of the late David Diller, father of Harry D. Diller.

The couple were married 26 years ago. Diller charged gross neglect in his petition and Mrs. Diller made a similar charge against him in her answer and cross petition.

The law firm of Mouser, Young & Mouser represented Diller and L. E. Myers was attorney for Mrs. Diller.

Answer Filed

J. W. Leatherman and Vesta Leatherman filed an answer yesterday in the suit brought against them by Artemus Straw, 83-year-old Marion County farmer, in which they deny all of his allegations and ask for dismissal of the suit.

Straw alleges that Mr. and Mrs. Leatherman contracted to purchase 51 acres of land in Bowling Green Township from him, giving their note for $2,000 as part payment. Later, he alleges, they regained possession of the note by using undue influence and threatening him with personal injury.

The Leathermans in their answer assert that the note has been paid.

Files Answer

Myer H. Friendly filed an answer and cross petition yesterday in the suit of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio against Edward B. Moon and others which he sets up a claim of $2,176.71 on a mortgage against lot No. 7215 John Herr's addition to the city of Marion, listed among Moon's assets. Friendly, through his attorney, Hayes Thompson, asks that the claim be paid, should the property be sold in connection with the receivership proceedings brought against Moon.
